"Remember withal through how many things thou hast already passed, and how many thou hast been able to endure; so that now the legend of thy life is full, and thy charge is accomplished."

The Ways and Means committee—if any—tentatively agrees upon a vote-getting tax bill.

The people of Washington have contributed just $101 to the Red Cross for our own tornado victims. We never get real generous with our money until something sad happens in Tibet or Czechoslovakia.

Alexandria raises $1,029 for the storm sufferers. That town ought to annex the District of Columbia instead of being satisfied with merely Arlington County.

Guest of the Ritz Tower varies the monotony of life a bit by signing the check first and then eating a $400 meal.

Judging by the unanimity with which the Ways and Means committee overrides Secretary Mellon, as soon as the House gets a crack at the tax bill it'll override the committee, and then the Senate will override the House.

The steam shovel that began yesterday the task of biting out a big hole in the ground as a foundation for the new Internal Revenue Building, ought to dig up some interesting historic relics as it goes along. We should not be surprised to see it turn up the ribs of a petrified slop, for in the old days the sailing boats coming up the canal used to anchor in a big basin which was along in this neighborhood. Rome hasn't the only Tiber capable of furnishing an ancient galley to the museum.

An open-air revival conducted in Washington at Thanksgiving time! It is understood that Prof. Beeswax P. McGinnis, general counsel of the year without a summer, positively refuses to attend.

What this country needs is a law providing that tax bills shall be revised after election instead of before.

Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, is suffering from a severe attack of Anglo-American friendship, but we understand that although it is highly contagious, the epidemic hasn't spread yet to Chicago.

The Chicago gangsters who resume their warfare on the State street front probably haven't heard yet that Mayor Nathan Hale Thompson abolished them a couple of months ago by an official order.

Maybe the Mayor's system in dealing with the gangsters is to wait until he can see the whites of their eyes.

Georgetown vetoes the proposed $10,000,000 bond issue for the improvement of Washington. The safest and cheapest bonds for this town are those of fair dealing between the District of Columbia and the Federal Government.

Eloquent clergyman preaches a midnight sermon to burglar discovered in his bedroom. "A soft answer turneth away wrath."

The venerable Supreme Court steps on the gas.

The Bureau of Standards is now so splendidly equipped that its delicate instruments could probably detect the merit in the Hoggin' farm relief bill.

The Du Ponts declare the largest extra dividends since the late unpleasantness. Peace hath her melons no less renowned than those of war.

The so-called Ways and Means committee, which has an invisible office and a theoretical occupation, also cuts a Mellon.

The solution of Washington's crime wave lies in the recommendations of Maj. Hesse. You can't fight a war without an adequate army.

Standard Oil greases Russia's palm to the extent of $40,000,000.

When it rains on Inauguration Day in Washington it's hard luck, but not so in Morocco. Sultan Mulai Yusef hoists the royal red umbrella, and he sure did need it, and we all want to add that we hope it's a fast color.

It looks now as though Mr. Coolidge would be drafted by the "daisy chain" system. Nobody can stop this selective draft but himself.

If the Chevy Chase pastor who drove a burglar out of his house with a sermon is a wise man he won't preach the same one to his congregation next Sunday.

CHAIN OF PETITIONS THAT COOLIDGE RUN CIRCULATED IN EAST

Movement Aims to Put Majority on Record Before Convention.

EACH VOTER SIGNING ASKED TO SIGN UP 10

Plan Regarded Ill-Advised by President's Supporters in Connecticut.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Nov. 21.—From a simple beginning in Boston, an ambitious movement aiming to put a majority of the people of the United States on record for the reelection of President Coolidge in advance of the Republican national convention is gaining ground in New England.

Links in a chain petition calling on the President to reconsider his decision not to run in 1928 appeared in various parts of Connecticut and Massachusetts today and were traced indirectly to Philip M. Tucker, a broker, of 201 Devonshire street, Boston. The plan, it was learned, is to ask each citizen signing the petition to get ten others to sign, branching out "infinitely" until the entire United States has been covered.

To present a petition representative of a majority of the voters participating in the last presidential election, nearly 15,000,000 signatures would be necessary. Four times that number would be required to speak for a majority of the American populace.

Republican leaders in Connecticut, who strongly favor the renomination of Mr. Coolidge, are discouraging the plan. J. Henry Norrback, Republican national committeeman from that State, said today that it was ill advised and tended to defeat its own ends. He and other Republican leaders in New England see no barrier to "drafting" Mr. Coolidge and are out of sympathy with gestures that might call forth a statement from the White House putting the President beyond conception. This objection has ended the circulation of some of the petitions started in Connecticut.

Some of the petitions are headed "Calvin Coolidge" and carry this introduction:

"Judge Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation for twenty years, shortly before his death, stated that he believed if the United States could keep Calvin Coolidge four years longer we would make more economic progress than might be made in 30 years under any other President."

"Mr. Coolidge proved to be one of the best governors of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and, since he has been President, he has become the outstanding figure of our age."

Cobham at Bordeaux On Way to Africa

Marseilles, France, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Sir Alan Cobham, noted British flier who has been called Britain's "air taxman," arrived here this afternoon from Bordeaux en route to Africa, where he will survey a proposed transafrican air route.

The flier is planning a 20,000-mile swing around Africa.

MOTHER AND SON DIE IN CAR AFTER REUNION

Fatal Wreck Quick Sequel to Family's Separation of 44 Years.

Los Angeles, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Reunited only a few hours after being separated 44 years, Clayton H. Nichols, 62, Emmetsburg, Iowa, and his 85-year-old mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Nichols, of Los Angeles, went to their deaths in an automobile accident near here today.

Mrs. J. W. Giddings, 58, sister of Nichols, also was killed. Her husband was injured.

Nichols left home when he was 18 and saw his mother last night for the first time in nearly half a century. There was happy reunion and Nichols started with his mother and Mr. and Mrs. Giddings early today to drive to Burlingame, Calif., to spend Thanksgiving with Frank G. Nichols, a brother, he had never seen.

Coming down a mountainous highway the car in which the four were riding struck a truck.

Marie Prevost Wins Divorce From Harlan

Los Angeles, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Marie Prevost, film star, today was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Kenneth Harlan, picture actor. The action came after the case had been under advisement for several days, and an amended complaint had been filed.

Miss Prevost charged neglect and desertion.

Anti-Fascist Plotting Charged to Prisoners

Rome, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Deputy Ponzio San Sebastiano and Gen. Benicivenga have been arrested at Turin charged with having favored anti-fascist "subversives" to leave the country in order to plot against fascism.

More Drastic Crime Laws Urged by Board of Trade

Full Support Is Pledged to Hesse in War on Lawlessness. Major Wants Detective Force of 100 and More Automobiles.

Legislation which would aid the police in their fight against the rising tide of crime in the National Capital, was endorsed by the Board of Trade last night, meeting in the Willard Hotel. The board adopted committee reports which detailed measures designed to this end, and pledged its full support to Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, major and superintendent of police, and his men.

The report of the committee on public order was adopted, after a speech by Maj. Hesse, in which he stressed the need for more stringent legislation to check lawlessness in the National Capital. This proposed legislation includes a recommendation of a measure similar to the Baumes bill in New York State for the District, which provide life imprisonment for a fourth conviction of a felony; an increase in the detective force to 100 men, with a cruising squad of not less than ten detective sergeants for duty between the hours of midnight and 8 o'clock in the morning; the purchase of ten additional passenger automobiles for the use of the detective bureau, and an officer not less than the grade of inspector on duty at police headquarters for 24 hours.

Referring to the Baumes measure, Maj. Hesse declared he was absolutely in favor of "any law that put the fear of God in the hearts of the criminals in the District of Columbia." Indicating the recent robberies of the "Cat" burglar, he said no one knows what the police are doing in Chevy Chase, but indicated that the resources of his department were being fully utilized to apprehend the thief.

Before listening to the address of Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, on problems affecting the future of Washington, the board adopted a report of the committee headed by H. H. McKee on referendum No. 50 of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which rejected two of the three recommendations of the chamber but approved that which Congress provide full opportunity for the joint congressional tax committee to perfect proposals for revision of the Federal tax laws and their administration.

The report of the special committee, which recently conferred with officials of the Detroit Bureau of Governmental Research, was heard. It was submitted by Joshua Evans, Jr., chairman of the committee on municipal finance.

POLICE, DEFIED BY GANG, TOLD TO KILL GUNMEN

Chicago Henchman of Capone Tries to Shoot Way Out of Detective Bureau. GUNMEN'S NEST SEIZED

Chicago, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Rival Chicago gangsters, opening a new war of extermination for gambling supremacy, today carried their feud to the doors of Chicago's largest police station, where it was nipped by the authorities who for two days I've been making a desperate effort to prevent the initial crack of gangsters' pistols and the roar of their sawed-off shotguns.

Chief of Detectives O'Connor, incensed over the brazen effrontery of the gangsters, ordered the formation of ten machine gun squads with instructions to drive the gangsters from the streets. He ordered every detective in his department to view the men in custody.

"These are the type of men to hunt for," the chief said. "When you give chase to gangs like this, riding in a car, hope to go out and find the top of their car shot off, with most of the men in it dead."

All the men in custody, including the three Capone bodyguards, were handcuffed together, and Chief O'Connor said he intended to keep them standing all night so his men could view them.

"At least we'll persecute them if we can't keep them in jail," O'Connor said.

A series of raids on machine gun and shotgun nests by the police last night to frustrate an assassination plot believed directed mainly against Al "Scarface" Capone, notorious gangster, culminated today in the arrest outside the South Park Street Police Station of three armed men believed to have been Capone's bodyguards, and the unsuccessful attempt of one of them to shoot his way boldly out of the office of William O'Connor, chief of detectives.

After questioning the three men, the police said they had obtained information there had been a plot to kill Capone when he appeared in court today, and that two killers were in the courtroom actually waiting for him.

Supreme Court Rules On 118 Cases in Day

(Associated Press.) How to treat congested court dockets was demonstrated yesterday as the Supreme Court disposed of 118 cases at one sitting and set a record which court officials believe will stand for some time.

Of the total cases decided, 34 were taken off the docket by written opinion, while 84 struck from the list were actions in which reviews were granted or denied.

Three other cases decided, 34 were taken off the docket by written opinion, while 84 struck from the list were actions in which reviews were granted or denied.

TEXAS JURY ORDERS DEATH FOR ROBBERY

Hold-Up Man Who Had Fire-arms but Did Not Fire, Is Sentenced.

Waco, Tex., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—For participating in the robbery of the First State Bank, Texarkana, Tex., with firearms, A. P. Bruton today was given the death penalty by the jury before which he was tried at Groesbeck, Limestone County. No shots were fired in the holdup.

Four other men arrested in connection with the robbery, in which about $2,000 was taken, will be tried later. One of these is Bruton's son.

The penalty is the most severe returned in a bank robbery case in Texas. Some convictions have brought 99-year sentences. Any robbery with firearms in Texas may bring the death penalty.

Mother Dies in Vain As Her Children Burn

Concord, N. H., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Mrs. Charles Marshall perished today in a heroic effort to save her four children from flames which destroyed their home. One child was saved.

Neighbors who discovered the house in flames said they saw Mrs. Marshall fight her way to a window through which she flung her son, Walter, 6 years old. She then ran back into the fire. Her body was found in the room, in which the other children, Ruth, 11; Robert, 4, and John, 5, were suffocated as they slept.

5 KILLED, 20 HURT AT COLORADO MINE; TROOPS IN CONTROL

State of Insurrection and Riot Decried by Governor. 2 WOMEN WOUNDED IN HAIL OF BULLETS

Strikers Blame Police for Volley; Deny Attack on Coal Property.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Military rule prevailed tonight in coal mining areas of northern Colorado where five strikers were shot and killed and more than 20 wounded by State police today in the first bloody outbreak since the strike was called five weeks ago by Industrial Workers of the World.

The shooting occurred near the Columbine mine, in Weld County, where guards recently were placed under orders to shoot any strikers who sought to invade the mine property to picket.

Conflicting versions of the shooting were given by representatives of the strikers and State officials.

A committee representing the strikers placed full blame on the officers, declaring not a single miner was armed and that they were not marching toward the mine, but were on their way to the postoffice, which is on the property of the Columbine mine.

Governor Backs Police. Gov. W. H. Adams, who issued an executive order declaring a state of riot and insurrection in Weld and Boulder counties, asserted the State police fired to protect themselves from an attack by the strikers.

The executive clerked Adjt. Gen. Paul P. Newton with full authority to proceed as he saw fit to command the situation, and guardmen were in control of the fields tonight with the same jurisdiction as under martial law, according to State officials. Five companies of infantry, two troops of cavalry, two armored tanks and a medical detachment of the State National Guard were detailed to the scene.

The strikers' committee also placed responsibility for the casualties on "a fool speed cop," who, they said, fired into the strikers. This shot, the statement said, caused some fighting and precipitated the point-blank volley fired by the officers.

Twenty officers, lined up in front of the mine, fired the shots.

Bullets Fell Strikers. A hail of bullets felled the ranks of the pickets and the advance was stopped.

Twenty of the wounded strikers were taken to the hospital at Longmont, a nearby town, and doctors said that at least four of them did not have a chance to live. Two were taken to a hospital at Boulder and other of the wounded were taken to their homes.

Firebug in Midland Theater Imperils 100

Midland, Md., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The lives of more than 100 persons were endangered tonight when, according to county officials, an attempt was made to burn the New Theater while a motion picture was being exhibited.

Investigators said they found a quantity of waste, excelsior and wood under the flooring of the theater, where the fire started. A strong odor of kerosene also permeated the place, firemen declared. No one was injured.

2 Hunting Accidents Make 7 Fatherless

Special to The Washington Post. Traverse City, Mich., Nov. 21.—Hunting accidents today left seven fatherless children in Kalkaska County on the southern border of the deer country.

Archie Wosney, Kalkaska garage owner, who had a wife and five children, was killed when his gun discharged accidentally.

William Smith, a wood cutter, was mistaken for a deer and shot through the heart while trudging home with an armful of groceries. His widow and two small children are destitute.

RED FLEET REVOLTS; OPENS FIRE, REPORT

Black Sea Sailors Support Trotsky; Shell Cities, Bucharest Hears.

(Special Cable Dispatch.) Bucharest, Nov. 21.—A sensational report of the revolt of the Soviet fleet in the Black Sea is published in several newspapers in this territory, one leading Bucharest newspaper stating that a report from Constantza declared the fleet revolted over the expulsion of Leon Trotsky, and Gregory Zinoviev from the Communist party. It states that the fleet fired on Odessa and Sebastopol. Several persons were reported killed, and numerous buildings were destroyed.

The Black Sea fleet always has been the center of dissension. Formerly it was with Gen. Wrangel, but it usually changes sides as the political wind blows.

RELIGIOUS LEADERS SEIZED AS PLOTTERS OF OBREGON'S DEATH

Mexican Chief of Police Declares Trio Has Confessed. PRIEST, HIS BROTHER, AND ENGINEER TAKEN

Arrests Made on Story Told by Men Who Attacked General's Auto.

Mexico City, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Gen. Roberto Cruz, chief of police, issued an official signed statement tonight, declaring that three prominent members of the League for the Defense of Religious Liberty—the organization which is opposed to the new religious law—were the actual and intellectual leaders in the recent plot to assassinate Gen. Obregon, and that they have been arrested and have confessed their guilt.

The names of the men are Luis Segura Vilchis, an engineer employed by the Mexican Light and Power Company; Miguel Agustin Pro Juarez, a Catholic priest, and his brother, Humberto Juarez.

Gen. Cruz, in his statement, says that Vilchis assumed entire responsibility for the plot to assassinate Gen. Obregon, but the police believe that this was done in an effort to shield his accomplices.

Accused by Men Who Died. Vilchis, the statement continues, also confessed that he continually has been shipping arms and ammunition to Catholic rebels in the States of Jalisco and Zacatecas. Vilchis, Father Juarez and the priest's brother have been placed in jail, pending further investigation.

The arrests came after confessions by Juan Tirado and Lamberto Ruiz, two of the men in the murder car who were shot by Obregon's companions after they had attempted to assassinate the general. Both of these men have since died. The police, on information gleaned from the confessions, found the house where, they allege, the three leaders in the conspiracy, with Tirado and Ruiz, and perhaps two others met, yet located, met to plan the death of Gen. Obregon. The conspirators styled themselves the "action group of the league for the defence of religious liberty."

Bomb Factory Found. In another house, the statement continues, where lived the priest and Miss Josefina Montes Decoa, niece of the deceased, a bomb factory was found.

47 Reds Arrested At Banquet in Poland

Warsaw, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Forty-seven persons were arrested and a quantity of communist literature was seized at a secret banquet at Miawa yesterday in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Soviet revolution, according to reports received here today.

Police consider that the arrests will give a severe check to the increasing activities of communists in the Miawa section.

Lady Mary Scott Hurt; Thrown From Horse

London, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Lady Mary Scott, daughter of the Duke of Buccleuch, is in a private clinic near Seckford, Scotland, the Daily Mail says, owing to a bad fall while she was riding to hounds today. She suffered severe injuries to her chin.

Lady Mary was once reported engaged to Prince Henry, son of the king, but nothing has been heard of this recently. Lady Mary's husband, the Earl of Dalkeith, was thrown while hunting a few days ago. His collarbone was dislocated.

Bedroom Sermon Saves Gems from "Cat" Burglar

Rev. J. H. Hollister Delivers Homily to Intruder He Finds in Home Armed With Gun and Flashlight. Repentant Robber Leaves Loot Behind.

The Cat, daring robber of the fashionable Northwest section, listened to an impassioned sermon delivered by the Rev. J. H. Hollister, pastor of the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, in the minister's bedroom last Friday night, police learned yesterday.

The robber gained entrance to the residence of Dr. Hollister at 3913 Ingotmar street northwest. While he was prowling about the minister's bedroom, Dr. Hollister was awakened and confronted the burglar.

According to police, the minister inquired if the intruder was the robber known as the Cat and received an affirmative reply. The Cat had gathered jewels from other rooms in the house, which were piled nearby. In his hands, the police were told, was his blinding flashlight and his revolver.

Dr. Hollister, the police were told, then drew the robber into conversation. Few words were spoken, when the Cat asked who slept in the bedroom adjoining that of the minister and was told

$40,000,000 RUSSIAN OIL IS BOUGHT BY STANDARD

Increases Annual Purchases to 1,400,000 Tons Despite Dutch Shell Protest.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The New York Times tomorrow will say that the Standard Oil Co. of New York, has entered into a contract for the purchase of 360,000 tons of Russian oil over a period of six years.

This will bring the company's total purchases of Russian oil to about 1,400,000 tons a year, representing an outlay of $40,000,000 during the life of this and two previous contracts with Russian oil interests.

All three contracts have been made since last December over the protest of the Dutch Shell group of Europe.

In addition to the purchases by Oil Co. of New York, a member of the Standard Oil, of New York, the Vacuum Standard Oil group, has arranged to buy about 225,000 tons of Russian oil yearly for a period of years, and is negotiating for additional purchases.

At the outset the Democratic membership lost a motion to authorize a reduction of $300,000,000. This was rejected on a strictly party vote.

Next, a motion to fix the maximum at $275,000,000 was defeated on a ballot the found one Republican voting with the minority.

Overwhelming for $250,000,000. Then on a vote, described by one member as overwhelming, the committee approved the $250,000,000 total.

The committee also rejected a proposal to repeal the inheritance levy by a 17 to 6 vote, and disapproved, 21 to 2, the suggestion for downward revision of the surtax rates.

A motion was adopted to refuse to consider proposals for repeal of reduction of the tax on tobacco sales and also the levy on stamp sales. A motion to reconsider action regarding the stamp taxes, however, was pending at adjournment.

The committee also voted to eliminate the tax on cereal beverages, a levy producing about $150,000 annually in revenue.

While the action yesterday is regarded as definitely indicating the program the committee will pursue in drafting the new tax bill, it is possible that some changes may be sought. Under committee rules a vote always is taken on bills as a whole at the time they are reported to the House.

Confer With Longworth. Announcement of the committee's action, taken in executive session, was made by Chairman Green. He declined, however, to say by what vote the various proposals had been approved or rejected, and this information had to be obtained from other committee members. Green likewise declined to comment on what had been done. After the meeting several Republican members held an informal session, which was attended by Speaker Longworth. It was the second time that the Speaker has conferred with his Republican colleagues since the present tax sessions of the committee started.

At the outset of yesterday's session Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury, was questioned at some length by the committee. It was his second appearance since executive sessions began, and he was asked to explain the method employed by the department in reaching the conclusion that $225,000,000 represented the maximum available for tax reduction.

Garner Predicts Larger Cut. Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking Democrat on the committee, declared he had hoped for a larger maximum.

"It is not as high as it should be," he declared, "but it will be more than $250,000,000 before the House gets through with the bill. It will be even more before the measure becomes a law."

Garner said the program approved yesterday embodied practically all recommendations proposed in the Democratic tax bill which Republicans pledged to endorse in the ways and means committee last session. He predicted the committee, in view of the day's action, would proceed in drafting a tax bill about as follows:

Cut the tax rate on corporation incomes from 13½ to 11½ per cent. Estimated loss in revenue, $172,000,000.

Reduce the sales tax on automobiles from 3 to 1½ per cent. Loss about $33,000,000.

Repeat the tax on admissions up to $3 tickets. This, he said, would still enable a tax on prize fight tickets. Loss estimated at $10,000,000.

$10,000,000 Loss on Club Dues. Eliminate tax on club dues. Loss $10,000,000. Garner also predicted that instead of the Treasury suggestion for modification on the tax rates on corporations with small incomes a substitute would be adopted. The substitute,

HOUSE COMMITTEE VOTES $250,000,000 REDUCTION IN TAXES

Mellon's Plan Rejected; Inheritance Levy to Be Retained.

DEMOCRATS BEATEN ON $300,000,000 CUT

Mills Is Again Questioned; Longworth Consults With G. O. P. Colleagues.

(Associated Press.) Overriding the Treasury proposal to limit tax reduction to $225,000,000, the House ways and means committee yesterday tentatively voted to set the maximum at $250,000,000 in framing a revenue bill.

It likewise turned thumbs down on Secretary Mellon's recommendations for repeal of the Federal inheritance tax and a downward revision of surtax rates on incomes falling within the intermediate brackets.

The committee decided to confine prospective tax cuts primarily to reduction of the levy on corporation incomes and either reduction or repeal of those on admission tickets, club dues and automobile sales. Determination of what changes would be made regarding these taxes was deferred.

Adoption of the motion to set $250,000,000 as the maximum cut came near the close of a stormy session and after a number of other proposals had been cast aside.

At the outset the Democratic membership lost a motion to authorize a reduction of $300,000,000. This was rejected on a strictly party vote.

Next, a motion to fix the maximum at $275,000,000 was defeated on a ballot the found one Republican voting with the minority.

Overwhelming for $250,000,000. Then on a vote, described by one member as overwhelming, the committee approved the $250,000,000 total.

The committee also rejected a

47-MILE MOTOR CAR PARADE OPENS FIRST LINK IN LEE HIGHWAY

Caravan, From Washington, Reaches Warrenton With 100 Cars in Line.

3,000 HAIL PROCESSION AT FINISH OF JOURNEY

Speeches and Clog Dance by Confederate Veterans Mark Road Exercises.

The historic roadway from Washington to Warrenton, which seven decades ago rang to the tread of Union troops marching to their first defeat, yesterday echoed the hum of a motor cavalcade formally opening the first link in the Lee Transcontinental Highway. Winding snakelike over the 47 miles of hard-surfaced roadway between Washington and Warrenton, the caravan increased in length as fresh delegations were encountered at each county line and entered Warrenton more than 100 cars strong. At the head of the procession rode Mayor Thomas E. Frank, of Warrenton School District, and a number of children, released from their classes, gathered along the roadside, waving flags and shouting. Four times the cavalcade halted to sever blue and gray hued ribbons stretched across the roadway and to hold brief ceremonies at the county boundaries.

3,000 Assembled in Warrenton. Arriving in Warrenton, the parade traversed the principal streets, led by the Army Band of Fort Humphreys and a color guard from the American Legion. A throng of 3,000 gathered on the streets to watch the parade. Returning to Courthouse Square, the participants were forced by rain to conclude their ceremonies in an auditorium adjoining the courthouse. Addressing 400 persons packed into the small auditorium, John R. Saunders, attorney general of the State, declared Virginia is just recovering from the blow dealt it by the Civil War. "The old Commonwealth has again come into its own," he said. "It has emerged still a leader in the galaxy of States." He declared the soil of Virginia "holy ground" because it has fostered such men as Washington, Marshall, Madison and Monroe. Introduced by Judge George Latham Fletcher, District Commissioner Sidney Taliaferro extended greetings from Washington. Commenting on the

C. A. ASPINWALL, President

State's wealth of ancestry, he asserted Virginians today "are as strong, as true and as able as sons and daughters of the State ever have been."

Moore Gives Talk.

Representative R. Walton Moore, of the Eighth Virginia District, predicted Virginia is destined to become one of the most widely traveled States in the Union when plans for the Shenandoah National Park reach final fruition. He said the advance made in recent years is not a "feverish or sporadic movement, but a definite and protracted progress."

Fletcher introduced Vernon Ford, of Page County, and J. C. Albright, district engineer, as two meriting commendation for carrying the highway forward to completion. Following the addresses, two Confederate veterans, Col. Fontaine Rose, a member of Mosby's regiment, and Lieutenant Smith, gave a clog dance to the strains of "Dixie" played by the Army Band. The procession began its long trek from Washington at 9 o'clock in the morning, choosing the Zero Milestone as its point of departure, and proceeding thence down Pennsylvania avenue and across Key Bridge. The procession was led by a squad of Metropolitan motorcycle policemen until the bridge was crossed, when the lead was turned over to Virginia officers.

Halt at Lyon Village.

At Lyon Village the cavalcade made its first halt, pausing only long enough to permit Miss Hazel Vickers, of Clarendon, to clip the ribbon stretched across the roadway.

The next stop was at Anandale road, on the outskirts of Falls Church. Here the ribbon was severed by State Senator Frank Bow and "Uncle" George Harrison, of Herndon, organizer of the first link of the Lee Highway Association. A brief address was made by M. E. Church, of the Fairfax Chamber of Commerce. The procession was increased in size at Fairfax Courthouse, where a large delegation from Alexandria, including organizations took their place in line. The parade did not halt again until it approached Bull Run Bridge, rich in the history of the Civil War and the battle that bears its name.

Here other ribbons were severed by Mr. C. Nash, of Manassas, and "Uncle" George Harrison. Prayer was offered by the Rev. W. A. Hall, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Manassas, and an address delivered by Thomas H. Lion, commonwealth's attorney for the county.

The fifth and last stop before reaching Warrenton was at Buckland, on the Fauquier County line. In a brief address at this point, Judge Fletcher declared the completed Lee Highway, stretching from Washington to San Diego, Calif., will be "the main street of the Nation."

Pays Tribute to Lee.

Judge Fletcher paid tribute to Gen. Robert E. Lee, whose name the highway bears, and said the road will become "one of the most popular in the world and bind together communities long separated by poor roads." Ribbons were cut here by Mr. Lion and Nick Galtus.

Just outside of Buckland, the parading motorists were met by a procession of automobiles representing models from 1902 down to the latest day. This unique assemblage led the main procession into Warrenton. Following the exercises in Courthouse Square, the hundreds of visitors and county delegations were entertained at dinner in the Warren Green Hotel. One group attended from Luray, Page County, to be present at the opening in development of the highway.

The entire program was sponsored by the Warrenton County Chamber of Commerce, under the leadership of C. E. Tiffany and J. Donald Richards. Twenty Washington automobile dealers entered automobiles in the parade.

DANE, IN PORTO RICO, TO BE BROUGHT HERE

Deputy U. S. Marshal Will Go for Prizefight Promoter.

A deputy United States marshal will leave Washington today to bring back Frank Dane, fight promoter, now in San Juan, Porto Rico, and wanted here to serve a three-year sentence for violation of the boxing laws of the District. Dane was taken into custody in Porto Rico upon the request of United States Attorney Peyton Gordon and is being held there until the deputy marshal arrives to bring him back.

Dane conducted a pugilistic exhibition at the Arca years ago, and it was contended that admission to the bouts was limited to members of the National Capital Sporting Club, of which Dane was the president. At his trial, however, it was testified that persons were admitted upon payment of an admission fee, which is contrary to the law covering fights in the Capital. Upon conviction Dane was sentenced to serve three years. He appealed, and after serving about three months in default of bond he was released on appeal. Dane was ordered to surrender himself, and upon failure to do so his bond was forfeited. While at liberty on the bond, it is understood, he took a group of local prize fighters to San Juan, where they have been engaging in bouts.

Annual Banquet Given By Christopher Club

The annual banquet of the Christopher Club of Washington, composed of Knights of Columbus, was held last night at the Lee House, presided over by the president, William C. Sullivan. Among the speakers were Anthony J. Scullen, grand knight of Washington Council, Knights of Columbus; James A. Sullivan, past state deputy; Lewis A. Payne, grand commander, Order of Elmhurst; James E. Collier, past grand knight; Washington Council, Knights of Columbus; Dr. F. T. Shyne and John F. Victory, secretary of the National Council of Aeronautics. Entertainment was by the Clara Boehrer Players.

Among those present were the Rev. Francis Hursey, spiritual director; Camden R. McAtee, vice president; Dale Masterson, secretary-treasurer; Ferd Rice, J. H. Fitzpatrick, James W. Cummings, Jr., John T. Sadler, Frank Harbin, John W. Hill, L. L. Werner, J. Dwyer, E. T. McMahon, P. Bazenas, Louis Roleau, Eugene B. Sullivan, Dr. R. M. Le Conte, W. A. McMillan, L. H. John Breunman, John O'Connell, C. J. Pribyl and W. H. Boyd.

Grayson Will Head Alumni Association

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson was elected president of the Alumni Association of William and Mary College at an organization meeting held last night at the University Club. Others elected to hold office in the present organization were Hon. William Patton Kent, first vice president; Francis Scott Key-Smith, second vice president; Representative S. Otis Bland, third vice president; J. W. Somerville, secretary, and Erle E. Stacey, treasurer. Dr. W. T. Hodges, alumni secretary of the college, addressed the meeting, which was adjourned until December 12, when Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the college, will be present. William and Mary College was founded in 1693 by King William and Queen Mary of England. It is located at Williamsburg, Va.

UNION LEADERS ASK PRESIDENT TO CALL SOFT COAL PARLEY

Coolidge Promises to Consult Davis on Proposal but Doubts Feasibility.

CHARGE CONSPIRACY TO DEPRESS PRICES

Advised to See I. C. C. on This Complaint; Denounce Injunctions on Strikers.

(Associated Press.)

President Coolidge was asked yesterday by a delegation of labor leaders to intervene in the bituminous coal strike in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, but he left with them clearly the advice that he saw little desirability in calling a conference between miners and operators unless both were agreed some good might come from it. To the request of the delegation, which was headed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, for a congressional investigation of "an alleged conspiracy of large railroads to depress the price of coal," Coolidge advised the workers' representatives that they could expect justice and cooperation if they filed their complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission. "The railroads of the country," President Green said he told Coolidge, "consumed practically 38 1/3 per cent of the bituminous coal mined. For that reason the railroads are a very important factor in determining fuel prices."

Want Fair Price on Coal.

"We were prompted to make our request because the freight rate structure is based upon a reasonable price for fuel. If a reasonable price for fuel is maintained the coal operators could pay a decent price for mining coal," said Lewis. The delegation had no sooner left the White House than it was stated on the President's behalf that he made no commitment regarding the calling of a conference to adjust the strike situation, but merely had promised to refer the request to the Interstate Commerce Commission, for investigation.

There seemed to Coolidge little to be gained by calling a conference unless both parties to the controversy were willing to go into it with the desire for reconciliation, and the impression clearly left at the White House that the President saw little likelihood of an invitation to confer being granted.

Cites Recommendations to Congress.

The mine workers' representatives were informed by President Coolidge that he had made several efforts to have Congress give him the authority to act in coal strikes, but that the mine workers themselves had contributed to defeat these efforts. He had replied that the proposal had been opposed because it did not make an effort to get at "the fundamental human relationship of the coal industry" and only was intended to prevent coal shortages.

"We were particularly interested," Green said, "in telling Mr. Coolidge of what we consider the abusive use of Federal and State injunctions, particularly that one which was issued in Pennsylvania recently restraining striking miners from talking with miners at work preventing them from bringing food to nonworking miners and even went so far as to prevent the holding of religious services in a church."

The alleged effort to beat down the price of soft coal is based, we believe, on an effort to destroy the mining industry."

The Labor Federation president declared that Coolidge had received their plea with great interest, but had made little comment except to say that he would investigate with Secretary Davis whether it would be feasible to call a conference.

Use of Injunction Scored.

In addition to asking Mr. Coolidge for a conference and a congressional investigation, President Green declared that the delegation had left at the White House a protest against the use of the injunction in Federal and State courts during strikes. He said miners had been prevented from carrying food and even from holding a religious meeting in a Presbyterian church.

After the meeting with President Coolidge, the delegation went into an executive session, and later Mr. Lewis conferred for nearly two hours with Secretary Davis at the Labor Department.

The miners' union head said that he and his colleagues had "laid down a program of constructive action in which we have sought the Government's aid, one branch of which would entail a congressional investigation into the situation, and the second of which would result in a conference between the miners and the coal operators concerned in Washington at the call of the President."

Secretary Davis Silent.

"We are hopeful of getting a recommendation from President Coolidge to Congress in his next annual message looking to the investigation," said Mr. Lewis. "We have as officers of the miners' union responded to several calls for conferences on labor controversies from the President, and we assume the mine operators would do the same in this case." Secretary Davis explained that he related to Secretary Davis, "the facts of the situation as we see it, so that he may be able to advise the President."

Union Donates $5,000 For Strikers Relief

The Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union of America has forwarded a check for $5,000 to the United Mine Workers for the relief of striking miners in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. This action was taken by the executive board of the union after a vote of 10 to 2 to make immediate relief might be afforded the striking miners.

In addition the executive board sent an urgent appeal to all members of the organization asking that local unions raise cash contributions of money, food, shoes, clothing and blankets. A conference of delegates from Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers National and International Unions, held in Pittsburgh last week, attention was called to the fact that the miners are destitute and many of them in desperate need.

WEST END CITIZENS OPPOSE PARK LOAN

Washington Burdened Enough With Taxes, Association Declares.

A resolution favoring a $10,000,000 loan from the Federal Government for use in the development of the city's parks and playgrounds, was a provision that the Federal Government bear a proportionate share in its payment, was voted down last night at a meeting of the West End Citizens Association in the Western Presbyterian Church.

The consensus among the members was that Washington's citizenry already was burdened with enough taxes without incurring additional obligations. E. D. Merrill, president and managing director of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., said his organization was planning a campaign of publicity to enlighten bus patrons of the bus system operated by his organization. Action on a motion favoring adoption of a Baumes law for the District of Columbia was postponed. The Baumes law is in effect in New York State and provides for the sentencing of persons convicted of felony four times to a life sentence in the penitentiary.

MAYFLOWER SOCIETY HEARS CHINESE LAUDED

Coolie Has Better Manners Than Average American, New Yorker Says.

PILGRIM IDEALS URGED

The manners of the average Chinese coolie are much better than those of the average American, Harold G. Murray, of New York, declared last night at the annual banquet of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the District of Columbia, held at the Hotel Washington.

The finest type of gentleman, Mr. Murray said, is the Chinese gentleman, and he described his manners as "exquisite." The speaker, who has traveled extensively in the Orient, said that among the reasons for China's troubles are her lack of transportation, her lack of unity and her ancestors' worship. He said that of the 2,000,000 Chinese who profess to be Christians, not more than a dozen are "real, honest-to-God Christians."

Dr. Frederic W. Perkins, pastor of the Universalist National Memorial Church, recalled that the banquet was being held on the anniversary of the signing of the civil compact by the Pilgrims on the Mayflower. He described the Pilgrims as "spiritual a venturers, and declared that what America needs most today is their qualities and ideals. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, echoed Dr. Perkins' plea that the country remember and maintain the ideals of the Pilgrim fathers. Thomas Frederick Whittesey was elected governor of the society; Kenneth Sanford Wales, deputy governor; John Altheus Johnson, captain; the Rev. John Thomas Huddle, elder; Mrs. Bertha Elizabeth Robertson, secretary; Harold Newman Marsh, treasurer; Mrs. Catherine Elliott Brumbaugh, historian; Dr. Charles Henry Stokes, surgeon; Edwin Clay Blanchard, Miss Mary Walcott Durham, Leon Clark Hills, Miss Carrie Emeline Marsh, Franklin Crocker Parks, Harry Hodges Semmes and Henry Crocker Wyman, board of assistants; Miss Mary S. Apple sang at the banquet and Carter B. Keene read the Mayflower compact.

Tour of Flooded Area Described by Husband

W. W. Huband, Assistant Secretary of Labor, told of his recent visit to the devastated regions of Vermont in an address at a meeting of the Vermont State Society of the District of Columbia last night in the auditorium of the Interior Department. He spoke of the damage done to the railways, State highways and to personal property in the State.

An address was also made by J. T. Nicholson, of the American Red Cross. Col. Joseph Fairbanks, moderator of the association and presiding officer of the meeting, stated that over $1,000 had been raised by members of the local society. This sum was sent directly to Gov. Weeks of Vermont. Motion pictures were shown of the flooded region.

Colored Postal Clerks' Union Elects Officers

The colored Postoffice Clerks Union, Local 148, through its elections committee, last night announced the results of balloting in the annual election of officers: W. H. Westray, president; H. H. Jackson, vice president; R. W. Bailey, financial secretary; W. H. Webb, recording secretary; D. A. Shell, organizer; J. A. Davis, sergeant at arms; C. A. Book, treasurer.

Trustees named were J. M. Botts, H. L. Derrickote and Ralph Qualls. W. C. Jordan and E. J. Pollard were named delegates to the Maryland-District of Columbia State convention. The elections committee consisted of Jabez Lee, W. H. Twine and J. P. Kelley.

Part of Alaska Dry Law Held Repealed

The search warrant section of the Alaska dry law was declared by the Supreme Court yesterday to have been repealed by the national prohibition act. Under the Alaska dry act search warrants for private residences could lawfully be issued under proof that intoxicating liquor was kept on the premises. Under the national prohibition act no residence can be lawfully searched except upon proof of sales.

ROBBERS WRECK BANK'S SAFE; FLEE WITH $8,000

Leave Scant Clew After Looting Upperville Institution at 3 A. M.

USE ACETYLENE TORCH

Special to The Washington Post. Upperville, Va., Nov. 21.—Authorities of Fauquier County are combing lonely places near this town in an effort to apprehend the gang of daring robbers who early this morning broke into the Upperville Branch of the People's National Bank of Leesburg, and after cracking the safe made off with about $8,000 in cash.

The robbers, who are believed to have made their escape in one or more automobiles, left little for county officers to work on, and it is thought that it will be largely by chance if they are found. Word has been sent to nearby communities to be on the lookout for any suspicious characters who may be about. The burglars are believed to have entered the bank about 3 o'clock this morning, found a large window in the rear on the first floor of the structure they worked quietly and disturbed none of the nearby residents. The reason for believing the burglars worked between 3 and 4 o'clock is that several residents heard automobile motors roaring about that time.

The thieves opened the safe by means of an acetylene torch, cutting a hole around the combination and forcing the bolts. When they departed after taking all available cash, they left behind a heavy tank used with the torch, and several other tools.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist—Adv.

QUESTIONS ON TAX LAWS ARE CLEARED BY SUPREME COURT

Holds Government Can Collect on Incomes From Indian Land Leases.

LEVY ON GIFTS MADE PRIOR TO PACT, BARRED

Revenue Commissioner's Settlements May Be Reviewed by Appeals Board.

(Associated Press.) Tax laws were materially clarified by the Supreme Court yesterday in its interpretation of numerous questions which have arisen to plague both the taxpayer and the tax collector.

In one case, involving taxes on income derived by leases of Indian tribal lands, the Government established its right to retain approximately $150,000,000 in revenue.

In another proceeding the Government lost in its contention that under the revenue act of 1924 it could tax gifts made prior to enactment of the law.

Right to Tax Lease Incomes.

While States have not been granted by Congress the right to tax income derived from leases on Indian tribal lands, the power of the United States to tax such income is undoubted. Justice Stone declared in deciding two cases brought by the Government against the executor of Glenn T. Bruden, who won in the Federal courts in Pennsylvania in his effort to collect taxes paid on income from oil leases on Oase Indian lands in Oklahoma.

Difficulty in Tax Case.

The court found great difficulty in disposing of the tax case. So far as the 1924 act undertakes to impose a tax on gifts made during the calendar year 1924 before its enactment, four of the members—Chief Justice Taft and Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds and Butler, declared the act must be held arbitrary and invalid.

FIRST LIEUT. MATTHEW E. FINN Killed yesterday when his plane crashed in the Philippine Islands.

LEUT. M. E. FINN, CAPITAL ARMY AVIATOR, IS KILLED

Flier Dies as Plane Crashes to Earth at Philippine Islands Training Field.

ENLISTED DURING WAR

Manila, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Lieut. Matthew E. Finn, stationed at Clark Field, Camp Stotsenburg, was killed today when a pursuit plane which he was flying crashed to earth during bombing practice. The cause of the accident was undetermined. Lieut. Finn's home address was Washington, D. C. He entered the service in 1917.

War Department records show that Lieut. Finn was born in this city June 16, 1897, and became a private first class, in the Signal Enlisted Reserve Corps December 8, 1917, becoming a second lieutenant, Air Service, National Army, in June, 1918; a second lieutenant, Air Service, Regular Army, in 1920 and promoted to a first lieutenant the same year. He enlisted at Fort Myer, Va., in 1917, being sent immediately to Princeton University for ground training.

On graduation he was sent to Tullahoma Field, Tex., for flying training, later transferring to Payne Field, Miss., being ordered to Garden City, N. Y., in October, 1918. He remained in service, later serving at Carlstrom Field, Fla., the general supply depot at Dallas, Tex., and Post Field, Okla.

He took a course in observation at Post Field and upon graduation became pilot and observer, being stationed at Kelly Field, Tex., and going to the Philippines in April, 1927. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eva Finn.

Four other members, Justices Holmes, Brandeis, Sanford and Stone, refused to pass on the constitutionality of the gift tax provision, but insisted that the law should be read as referring only to transactions taking place after its passage. All eight, Justice Sutherland being absent, agreed that John W. Blodgett, who, in a Michigan case, was compelled to pay taxes on gifts he made in January, 1924, could not be required to pay them under a law passed in June of that year.

Secretaries made by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under sections 327 and 328 of the revenue act of 1924 are subject to review by the Board of Tax Appeals and the courts. Justice Stone declared, in a case appealed by the Government, involving taxes levied on the Oesterlein Machine Co. of Cincinnati. The Government has not denied the right, however, of testing out before the board and the courts whether certain plans of the case were open to review.

MELLOW'S REVENUE PLAN SIDETRACKED

which he said he favored, would result in a loss of about $27,000,000 in revenue. He outlined it as follows:

For small corporations allow a graduated tax of 5 per cent on net income under $7,000; 7 per cent on $7,000 to $12,000; 10 per cent on $12,000 to $15,000. The present exemption of $2,000 would be retained.

The Treasury recommendation favoring permitting corporations with net incomes of $25,000 or less, and with more than ten stockholders, to file returns as partnerships at their option.

MORROW IS FOSTERING AMITY, SAYS TELLEZ

Declares Popularity Will Reconcile Anti-American Element in Mexico.

(Associated Press.) The person's popularity achieved by Ambassador Morrow promises to reconcile the anti-American element in Mexico, in the belief of Ambassador Tellez, who said yesterday the new American envoy had created a spirit of amity long needed in Mexican-American relations.

Tellez, who recently returned from a visit in Mexico City during the time of the arrival of Morrow, said that, in addition to his personal charm which has won all Mexicans, the new Ambassador had abandoned most of the strict forms of diplomatic procedure and had adopted his own ideas of tactics in dealing with Mexican officials. He never sends notes but talks personally with officials and, Ambassador Tellez declared, usually is successful in achieving an understanding of disputed questions.

The Mexican envoy expressed the belief that the recent rulings of the Supreme Court refusing to sanction the withholding of drilling licenses from foreign oil companies is indicative of an event clearing up of the petroleum controversy.

HOWARD CONFESSES HE'S INFECTED WITH FRIENDSHIP FOR U. S.

Ambassador Ironical as He Discusses Charges of British Propaganda.

PILGRIM DESCENDANTS HAVE HIM AS GUEST

Sir Esme Sees Anglo-American Amity as Main Hope of World Peace.

Boston, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, admitted tonight that he was "badly infected" with the "terrible disease known as Anglo-American friendship" and in a more serious vein expressed the belief that "the peace of the world depends largely upon friendship and understanding between our two countries."

Speaking before the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants at the Hotel Somerset, the Ambassador brought with it some dread infection of the terrible disease known as Anglo-American friendship. It is, of course, a most dangerous malady and may lead to results almost too appalling to contemplate.

"We have heard so much lately from another place of the danger of British propaganda in this country that I was beginning to wonder whether the descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers gathered here to celebrate the landing of their ancestors at Plymouth might not have feared that the presence of the British Ambassador tonight might bring with it some dread infection of the terrible disease known as Anglo-American friendship. It is, of course, a most dangerous malady and may lead to results almost too appalling to contemplate."

"I fear, nevertheless, I am badly infected with it and, indeed, I am bold enough, unashamed enough, to say that I should be glad to do so."

"My reason for desiring friendship and understanding between our two countries I have never sought to hide for the last 34 years that I have been British Ambassador here."

Making Peace Difficult.

"It is not only on account of my personal sentiments, because I have many friends on this side of the water and because I have continually met with real, frank, unadulterated kindness wherever I have been, but also and especially because I believe that the peace of the world depends largely upon that understanding."

"It is therefore difficult for me not to believe that those who seek to undermine it are consciously or unconsciously actively promoting a state of things which will make permanent peace far more difficult to realize and the possibility of a new world war, whether for us or for our children, would be disaster so incalculable that even such a dangerous propaganda as British Ambassador may be believed and excused for doing what little he can to avert it."

"There seem to be some on either side of the Atlantic who believe that those who preach friendship and understanding desire to denature their own countries, to undermine the patriotism of their compatriots. Now I repeat for myself, at least, and I believe the same can be said of every Englishman, that we no more wish to see the Anglican Empire than we wish to see the Americanization of England."

Sir Esme told of a letter from his son, Lord Howard, who said that his American classmates were "much more alive to the absence of American plumbing than to the architectural beauties of Oxford," and added:

Where Censorship Falls.

"As to plumbing I may say quite frankly that I could wish to see not only our but the rest of the world considerably more Americanized. We have much besides plumbing to learn from the United States and we can adapt without losing our individuality, without becoming too much Americanized."

It is possible also that American travelers, after they have seen the world, will be shocked by British plumbing and other important mediaevalisms, may find one or two things in the British Isles which would be useful to the United States and which all the censoring and auto-da-fé of books in the world cannot terminate. These things, he said, were the English language, English law, the English constitution, the English sense of government, "which combines a determination to reject and refuse any government which attempts to tax the people without their consent and respect for the will of the majority as expressed in elections."

Jury Finds Evidence Lacking in Mills Case

The murder of Edward L. Mills, prosperous Darnestown district farmer and Quiryns, who was killed on the morning of July 7 will probably remain an unsolved mystery, as the jury in the Montgomery County grand jury to uncover any new evidence in its investigation of the crime.

The jury, which adjourned yesterday after devoting almost all of the day to a study of the case, questioned 30 witnesses, including the English countess by her testimony. The grand jury reported that it had learned absolutely nothing on which to base an indictment. County officials said that unless new evidence is brought to light the grand jury investigation marks the close of the case.

Dr. Oliver Given Fund For Study of Meteors

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 21.—The National Academy of Sciences has just made a grant of $200 to Dr. Charles P. Olivier, professor of astronomy of the University of Virginia.

This grant, which is from the J. OSCAR E. KELLER DEAD; WROTE WELFARE LAW

Former Minnesota Representative Sponsored Other District Bills.

END COMES IN ST. PAUL

Oscar E. Keller, former representative of Minnesota, and author during his term of office of several bills affecting the District, died yesterday at his home in St. Paul. While in the House he introduced a resolution to impeach the members of the District, which was found to be unproved by the Judiciary Committee, which held hearings on the measure.

Keller, who was 49 years old, was the author of the public welfare law enacted in the Sixty-ninth Congress, and which is now in force in the District. As a member of the District Committee of the House, Keller introduced many measures which are now part of the law governing the District. He was the father of the teachers' salary bill which was passed in the Sixty-eighth Congress, and was also the representative who introduced the bills regulating the practice of dentistry and pharmacy in the Capital. He also introduced the mothers' pension bill, regarded as one of the most important reforms in welfare work in the city.

Mr. Keller was elected to Congress in the term beginning in March, 1919, and served four terms, his tenure ending last March. Last year he was defeated for reelection by Melvin J. Mass, Republican. Keller had been a Progressive Republican.

SHIP BOARD DISPUTE SETTLEMENT SEEN

New Proposal for Sale of Three Ship Lines May Dispose of Controversy.

The United States Shipping Board today is expected to dispose of the controversy which has arisen among its members over the proposed sale of three ship lines operating 37 ships off the Pacific coast. The board has been divided over terms of the contracts under which the lines are to be disposed of, but it was indicated last night that a compromise would be effected today.

Chairman O'Connor is supported by Commissioners Myers and Plummer in the proposed sale of the lines. The board is expected to dispose of the lines by a guaranteed period of operation of five years, with a ten-year guarantee period in favor of Commissioners Hill and Teller.

A new proposal, providing for a shorter period of operation, was introduced by Commissioner Smith. His plan calls for sale on a small initial payment, with the provision that should the buyer be unable to operate, the lines are to be returned to the Government and the term due payments be written off.

BORAH PLANS MOVE ON WAR RESOLUTION

Wants Congress to Consider Proposal to Outlaw—Re-course to Arms.

(Associated Press.) Another effort will be made at this session of Congress by Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, to obtain action on his resolution to outlaw war.

Coming at a time when the United States is engaged in a bitter conversation, at least, over a proposed treaty to that end, Senator Borah believes consideration of his resolution will be a more favorable light.

The resolution has never been brought to a vote. Mr. Borah's proposal would provide for the outlawing of international law, would denounce the recognition of war as a legitimate means of settling disputes and would set up an independent international tribunal to hear disputes.

"A proposal to outlaw war can be based on nothing more than the plighted word of the nation," he said yesterday, "but there is nothing more behind any treaty now entered into between nations."

CONTEMPT INQUIRY BEGUN IN NAVAL OIL JURY CASE

Lawyers Selected by Court Scan Affidavits and Statutes in Proceedings.

SENSATION IS PROMISED

(Associated Press.) A new and surprising move in the Fall-Sinclair oil trial jury inquiry is under consideration by District Attorney Gordon. Its precise nature was not divulged yesterday, but it was known that it would be independent of the grand jury investigation and also of the inquiry being made by a committee appointed by Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, to determine whether contempt of court had been committed.

The committee, composed of James E. Lasky and James S. Easton-Smith, began its work yesterday. Laws involved in the proceedings were gone over and the affidavits alleging Edward J. Kidwell, Jr., juror No. 11 in the trial, talked too freely, were examined. The committee was directed to examine the affidavits of Don K. King, a Washington newspaper man, and J. Jay Akers, a former street car conductor, who swore Kidwell had said he expected to have a car as "long as this block" after the conspiracy trial ended.

As on the closing days of the last week there was no visible signs of action by the grand jury in the surveillance case. The grand jury was in session, but the District Attorney announced they were considering other cases.

Despite the air of expectancy that a surprising action was being planned, District Attorney Gordon refused to discuss the subject, although he said he had spent the day in working on the case.

Reading Newspapers No Bar to Jury Duty

Baltimore, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Talesmen for the trial of Charles F. Carey, accused of killing Alfred H. Walker, guard in an attempted escape from the penitentiary, today were informed by Judge Ulman that reading the newspapers did not bar them from jury service.

"If that were the test," Judge Ulman told the talesmen "the more intelligent men in any community would be less qualified to act as jurors because they read the newspapers."

Walker was killed in a dash resembling the one in which Edward Reese Whittemore, noted gang leader, killed a guard and was hanged at his recapitulation. Benjamin F. Spragins, Jr., of Virginia, is under sentence to death for his part in the Walker killing.

ACCOUNTING OF FEES IS ORDERED BY COURT

Master in New York Oil Cases Also Is Facing Contempt Charge.

(Associated Press.) Abraham S. Gilbert, who acted as master by appointment of the courts in the Consolidated Gas cases from New York City, was called upon by the Supreme Court yesterday to report to it before December 12 certain information as to fees and allowances received by him as master, and to show whether he should be cited for contempt.

The court ordered Gilbert to show in writing what fees or allowances were paid him for services as master in the gas cases, and when and by whom they were paid; whether he returned or paid back any portion of the fees or allowances he received, with names and dates, and whether he received any fees or allowances exceeding the maximum regarded by the Supreme Court to be permissible and has not returned or repaid the excess.

In case Gilbert received and has not returned excessive fees or allowances, he is called upon to show why his name should not be stricken from the list of attorneys permitted to practice before the court and be punished by the court for contempt.

NEW ENGLAND FLOOD DAMAGE $30,000,000

Hoover Estimates Loss and Predicts Speedy Repairs in Stricken Area.

(Associated Press.) Estimates in the hands of Secretary Hoover place the New England flood damage at between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000.

The figures were compiled from reports by the various State's departments, by chambers of commerce and by railroads traversing the stricken territory.

"These estimates represent rough and hasty calculations," Mr. Hoover said. "The plan for relieving the population affected was approved. It is likely that there will be quick repair of the damage, since the character of the people of this region is high and their ability and industry great. Indeed, one of our minor problems is to find out who and where the individuals are that need emergency relief, since the pride of the New Englander usually will not let him ask for help himself. It is not to be expected that the damage done will have any lasting effect upon the industrial progress of the localities most concerned or of New England."

TABER REELECTION AS LEADER OF GRANGE DEBENTURE VICTORY

National Master Has Been Consistent Supporter of Farm Relief Plan.

OHIO OFFICIAL ASSAILS PROPOSAL AS UNSOUND

Truax Asserts It Will Not Be Indorsed by the Other Organizations.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Re-election today of Louis J. Taber, Columbus, Ohio, as master of the National Grange for the third successive two-year term was looked upon by grange leaders as an indorsement of Taber's sustained fight for an "export debenture as the most logical solution to the farm relief problem."

The National Grange voted to back the "export debenture plan," designed to give agriculture favorable tariff on exports such as those now enjoyed by Portland, Ore. Reinforcement of industry, at 1926 convention in the debenture plan at the present convention was expected from indications seen in reelection of Taber. He represented the grange before Congressional committees and presented the debenture plan in a nation-wide campaign.

Other Officers Elected.

Election of Taber was almost unanimous, only a few scattered votes being cast for other candidates.

Other officers elected were: overseer, David H. Agans, Three Bridges, N. J.; lecturer, James C. Farmer, South Newbury, N. H.; steward, Herman H. De-Neenah, Wis.; assistant steward, Ralph
W. Smith, Newton, Iowa; chaplain, W.
W. Beal, Nampa, Idaho.

Gov. Robert P. Robinson, Wilmington, Del., was reelected treasurer; Charles M. Freeman, Tippecanoe City, Ohio, secretary; W. B. Hanly, Erie, Pa., gatekeeper; Mrs. James P. Phillips, Englewood, Mo.; Ceres, Mrs. George A. Palmer, Hood River, Ore.; Pomona, Mrs. John E. Abbott, Berkeley, Me.; Flora, Mrs. A.
G. Emory, Forest Hill, Md.; lady assistant steward, and A. S. Goss, Seattle, Wash., member executive committee.

Charged With Causing Split.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 21 (A.P.).— Louis J. Taber, reelection master of the National Grange, was blamed for causing division among farmers on the subject of Federal farm relief by Charles V. Truax, Ohio's director of agriculture, in a statement tonight. Truax is an advocate of the McNary-Haugen bill, which President Coolidge vetoed.

Truax declared it was Taber's influence over the Grange that caused that organization to indorse "the scaled debenture plan to divert the customs revenues of the United States to a subsidy of agricultural exports," and that farm cooperative marketing organizations have expressed themselves in opposition to farm legislation were "practically unanimous" in the support of the Mc-Nary-Haugen bill up to that time.

Predicts Split Support.

Truax said the debenture plan will receive very little support from other farm organizations. He said he had just received a telegram from Chester
H. Gray, legislative agent of the American Farm Bureau Federation, stating that his organization had rejected the equalization plan for surplus control and that "every indication" is that it will reaffirm its stand at the next annual meeting.

He called attention to the indorsement of the McNary-Haugen bill by the National Farmers Union at Des Moines last Tuesday. Truax also declared the debenture plan "would stop at one stroke the income of the United States Government from customs and duties, and because it is a fundamental amendment to our tariff laws which would force it to originate, not in the agricultural committee but in committees of Congress totally unfamiliar and unsympathetic with the farm problem."

Mrs. Remus Slain in Plot, State Charges at Trial

Three Others Declared Involved in Conspiracy—Dead
Woman's Chauffeur Tells of Mystery Car—Prisoner Unable to Make Opening Address.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The first evidence upon which the State depends to send George Remus, the former "King of Bootleggers," to the electric chair, was adduced today after Remus and sprung the biggest surprise of the trial by declining to make the opening statement for the defense.

Six times last week Remus electrified
the spectators in Judge Chester R.
Shook's court by clashes with the prosecution but the surprise of none of them exceeded that of today when Charles H.
Eaton, associate counsel, opened for the defense, Remus, suffering from a heavy cold arose just after Walter K.
Sibbald, deputy prosecutor, had concluded his evidence and he was invited for the execution of Remus for the cold-blooded murder of his wife here last October 6.

Quickly the defense, who is his own chief counsel, sat down. He leaned over and whispered to Eaton.
"I don't believe I can make it," Remus said. "You do it."

Eaton addressed the jury, without a moment's warning that Remus would not make the opening statement he had planned, virtually since the day of the murder.

He outlined a defense solely of transitory insanity. His most startling statement was the evidence which he introduced to prove that Remus had been insane for two years prior to the time he shot Mrs. Remus.

The chief factor upon which Eaton erected his structure of temporary insanity, however, were Mrs. Remus' alleged association with Franklin L.
Dodge, Jr., of Lansing, Mich., former Department of Justice agent, and the alleged persecution of Remus by Dodge after the Federal agent had obtained the conviction which sent the former lawyer, who turned bootlegger, to the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

The first witness of the case, comely
Mrs. Elsie Bachmann, who served Mrs.
Remus as secretary a year and a half, testified that she spent the last two nights of Mrs. Remus' life in her hotel suite here.

The high point of Mrs. Bachmann's testimony seemed to be that at 10 o'clock on the night before the murder, Mrs. Remus was alone in her hotel and was away several hours on an errand which "would be very valuable, if it materialized." Mrs. Remus did not make any telephone calls the night before she was killed, Mrs. Bachmann testified.

Story of Death Told.

The story of how Mrs. Remus met death was told by Charles Stevens, a taxicab chauffeur, who testified that he had driven for her for a year.

Remus' automobile first followed his taxicab as he drove Mrs. Remus from her hotel toward the divorce court, where she was to have faced her husband and Stevens, testifying.

Once the Remus machine sought to block the taxi and failed, only again to shoot forward and crowd it to the side of the road, Stevens said.

"Remus got out on the running board of his car and Mrs. Remus left my cab," said Stevens. "Remus had a gun in his right hand and he was waving it in front of him. He was swearing and I heard a shot. Mrs. Remus, before the shot, cried 'For God's sake don't do it!'
Buddy, what are you going to do?"

Stevens detailed Remus' profanity and, under cross-examination, denied that what Remus had said was: "You degenerate mass of flesh."

Did Not See Pistol.

Mr. Eaton tried to attack Stevens' testimony concerning the language by questioning the witness' statement that Remus had his right hand in his coat pocket.

$75,000,000 BONDS
BOUGHT BY BANKERS

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Purchase Largest Industrial Issue of Year.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The largest industrial bond issue of the year—$75,000,000 mortgage sinking fund 3 per cent gold bonds, series "A," of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., has been purchased by Kuhn, Loeb &
Co. it was announced today.

This flotation has been exceeded in size this year only by the offering of $65,000,000 of Missouri Pacific Railroad bonds. The Youngstown company's bonds are due January 1, 1978, and are being offered by the bankers at 101 and accrued interest to yield about 4.95 per cent to maturity.

The purpose of the issue, the company announced, is to refund a lower rate of interest the company's entire outstanding bonded indebtedness and to reimburse the company's treasury for part of its expenditures for additions and improvements.

The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. is rated as the second largest producer of steel pipe in the world.

KEYSTONE G. O. P. POST RESIGNED BY COL. WOOD

Act Prompted by Desire to Promote Reed Candidacy for Reelection.

LATTER DEFENDS VARE

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Col.
Eric Fisher Wood tonight announced his resignation as chairman of the executive committee of the Republican State committee subject to its acceptance by W. L. Mellon, chairman of the State committee.

The resignation was offered, Col.
Wood said, in order that he might be free to give his best efforts toward the success of United States Senator David A. Reed if he announces his candidacy for reelection. This was taken to mean that Col. Wood would manage the Reed campaign.

The announcement of Col. Wood's plans was made at a testimonial dinner tendered him in the Penn-Harris Hotel here tonight. More than 1,000 Republican leaders were present.

Senator Reed made no reference to his probable candidacy for reelection but reiterated his pledge that he would fight to the last ditch for the seating of Senator-elect William S. Vare. He declared the question was far bigger than the personalities of either Mr.
Vare or himself and that it was one of the greatest crises of the American Constitution.

"This contest," he said, "will develop whether 10,000,000 people are competent to decide who shall represent them or whether it shall be left with the 95 other senators who happen to be in office. It is not a question of Senator Vare or me, it is a question of the right to the heart of the Constitution and the rights of the people."

"I believe that when the question is brought home to the other senators and when they are reminded of their administration of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, it will bring them to sober thought. I believe that Senator Vare will be seated."

Declares Home Stripped.

Eaton declared to recite a long list of alleged indiscretions by Mrs. Remus and Dodge; that together they stripped the Remus mansion here, even to the chandeliers; that Mrs. Remus planned the murder of her husband and "FD" removed from the Remus silver and "FD" substituted; that she had "FD" painted on Remus' private automobile, and during the physical violence, she had seven automobiles which Dodge used.

Eaton asserted the evidence would prove Dodge and Mrs. Remus lived together as man and wife, not only in various hotels about the country, but in the Remus home here; that together they disposed of from $150,000 to $200,000 worth of Remus diamonds, property valued at $350,000, of none of which Remus received, and of $80,000 worth of property from which Remus got $100.

Shortly before Remus was sent to the penitentiary, Mrs. Remus had $275,000 in cash, pleaded his defense, and gunmen were promised $15,000 to shoot Remus.

"These were the things, and many others he went over in his mind a thousand times, including nights he lay in jail, and the violence was with Mrs. Remus," said Eaton.

After his demonstration of last Friday, when he threatened Prosecutor Taft with physical violence, two bailiffs sat near Remus today and two more sat near the prosecutor's table.

iffs sat near Remus today and two more

The greatest crowd since the trial started last Monday stormed the courthouse and permitted about two score of standers to line the courtroom walls.

TRANSFORMING WASHINGTON.

Excavation of the foundation for the first building to be placed in the Mall-Avenue triangle was begun yesterday. Without ceremony a steam shovel began the momentous work that will transform a dilapidated portion of the National Capital into its most imposing central feature. The first work happens to be devoted to the Internal Revenue Building, but it will soon be followed by construction of the immense building that will house the Department of Commerce, and the series of structures constituting the Department of Agriculture.

The total cost of the Government's building program in this District will run up to $100,000,000 and will consume many years. In connection with the building program, steps will be taken to embellish the region between the Capitol and the Union Station. A broad avenue will connect the Union Station with Pennsylvania avenue at the foot of the Capitol, affording an expeditious and convenient traffic outlet. The area lying directly north of the Capitol will be changed into a park, thus completing the plan for placing the Nation's most important building in a spacious and picturesque setting.

The Public Building Commission is making commendable progress, now that the basic plan has been approved by Congress. The work of removing ancient buildings, providing new homes for institutions that must be displaced and beginning erection of the new buildings will doubtless be prosecuted with vigor. Economy as well as increased efficiency calls for early completion of the entire plan.

TO HELP LOCAL SUFFERERS.

Less than a week has passed since a tornado swept through the eastern section of Washington, leaving a scene of devastation in its path. Several hundred of families suffered loss of nearly all they possessed. The Red Cross hastened to the aid of those in need and their material wants were promptly met, while those who sustained physical injuries found nurses and doctors ready to minister to them. But the houses destroyed or damaged were in most cases the homes of working people not abundantly supplied with this world's goods. Many of those homes are only partly paid for, and the cost of repairs falls as a heavy burden on the owners. They need help.

It has been suggested that a revolving fund should be provided, from which the cost of repairing the damaged property can be paid. It would not be a charitable proposition, as precautions could be taken that would assure the ultimate repayment of the money advanced. Washingtonians have never been backward in responding to appeals for aid to relieve distress elsewhere. Thousands of dollars were sent to Japan to aid the sufferers from the earthquake. The District of Columbia responded to the call from the flood sufferers of the Mississippi Valley and promptly added its "mite" to the extent of more than $149,688, to the funds distributed through the Red Cross. An equal sum to be expended in repairs to the homes of those who are unable to finance their own rebuilding operations might readily be raised and placed in the control of a competent committee, to be loaned to the needy at the lowest possible rate of interest and to be repaid in small monthly installments.

The suggestion is worthy of the consideration of financial Washington. It is not proposed as a charity, but as a business proposition, sweetened with philanthropy.

WORLD TIN MONOPOLY.

On the heels of the announcement that a trade agreement had been reached by the producers of sugar, comes word from England that a tin cartel is nearly ready. The proposed scheme is to fix the world price of tin for at least a year ahead at a figure that will "free the market from the operations of the speculator, enable the manufacturer to know what he will have to pay, and stimulate increased production by giving an assured profit, especially in those fields where production costs are high."

The general public has little idea of the part that tin plays in daily life. Tin is essential to all high-speed machinery. Without it the automobile would hardly be possible. From the tube of tooth paste which is squeezed in the morning to the bed springs upon which one reclines at night, tin enters many times every day into the lives of all.

During the past six years the demand for tin has doubled, whereas production has increased only about 15 per cent. Production has reached its limit, according to experts, and the world faces the necessity of having to conserve its supply. This fact gave additional stimulus to formation of the cartel.

What will be the upshot is problematical. The United States does not look with favor upon trade combinations having as their purpose the fixation of prices. Economically there is reason to doubt the wisdom of establishing a price to protect operators whose cost of production is above normal. Conservation, however, is another matter. Since only 25 per cent of the world's supplies of metallic tin are controlled by the United States, as against approximately 42 per cent by the British Empire, it is apparent that the cartel will command considerable interest here. This much is certain—that the price of tin under it will rise.

THE BASIS OF PROSPERITY.

In his Union League address President Coolidge gave in condensed form a most instructive explanation of the underlying philosophy of American prosperity. He pointed out that prosperity is not a mere accident, but is the outcome of a carefully thought out policy. This policy, stated in a nutshell, is that "the people of the country should own and conduct all gainful occupations not directly connected with Government service."

In the furtherance of this policy the people who control the Government, established the system of protection. The first bill ever introduced in Congress provided for protective duties for the purpose of encouraging American production. The proof that universal protection of American industry and labor is a success is the prosperity of the American people. The depression of agriculture is not the result of protection. On the contrary, the chief bulwark against a collapse of agriculture in this country is the protective tariff. The cure for agricultural depression is not to be found in destroying the prosperity of all nonagricultural workers in this country, which would occur if the American market were freely opened to foreigners. Agriculture will take its place with other industries when farmers adopt the businesslike methods of other industries. If manufacturers were as careless as farmers in reckoning costs, as negligent of market methods, and as incurably bent upon producing certain products year after year without regard to famine or oversupply, the bowl for "industrial relief" would drown the present cry for farm relief.

The protective tariff surrounds the United States, but does not interfere with free trade within the United States. Thus a market of enormous extent, filled with busy producers who are necessarily heavy consumers, is created for the common benefit of both producers and consumers. If prices to consumers are high, the fault is not in the fact that Americans control their own market to the virtual exclusion of foreign competition. The fault lies in the negligence of Americans to regulate their marketing. Farmers, especially, are negligent in this respect; consequently the great spread between production cost and retail price is found in farm products.

The farmer is entitled to all that the traffic will bear, exactly as the manufacturer or the railroad is entitled to it. The manufacturer looks after his market, down to the ultimate consumer. The railroad is energetic in resisting reduction of rates, and strives to serve the public by giving reliable and quick transportation. Farmers, as a class, are slow in organizing for marketing purposes. They should control their product until it is consumed, but they let this control slip into other hands. Senator Capper asserts that these middlemen make $20,000,000,000 a year, while the farmers get only $10,000,000,000 for their products. The cost to consumers is $30,000,000,000 when it could be cut to $20,000,000,000, with 50 per cent more profit to the farmer.

Without the protection of the tariff the farmer would not receive even $10,000,000,000. Instead of attacking the protective system, the farmers should organize and go after the billions that are taken from them by enterprising citizens who attend to the farmers' marketing. Everything that the farmer produces is protected by a tariff framed by the farm bloc in Congress. Very little foreign foodstuff enters the United States.

HORSE TRANSPORT.

Any one who saw the recently published statistics regarding horses in the United States Army, or who reflects on the wonderful breeding industry that supplies runners in such numbers for the horse race meetings of the world, is not deceived by the catch-cri, "the day of the horse is over," once so common, but now not so often heard. The horse will reap in great force as the motive power for urban and suburban street and road transportation, if a certain British organization has its way. That organization, founded to further the interest of the breeder and user of the horse and pony, is known as the National Horse Association of Great Britain. At the request of various bodies commercially interested in the maintenance of horse traffic, it is conducting an active propaganda for the encouragement of the use of horses for transport purposes, and is meeting with support and cooperation from firms with large deliveries to make.

If there is a return to the use of the horse—and it is believed that there are more horses working in London now than there were in 1913—it is based by no means on sentiment, but mainly on economic reasons. "Horse power is cheap power" is the slogan. A survey of horse-drawn and mechanically-propelled vehicles, undertaken by the corporation of the City of Glasgow for an eight-hour day, 313 days per year, showed the following results:

Cost per day—Horse drawn, 18s 3½d; mechanical, 40s 11d; cost per load—Horse drawn, 6s 2½d (three loads per day); 5.2 tons per day; mechanical, 12s 9.44d (3.2 loads per day; 8 tons per day).

These conclusions, at least for a circumscribed area of 4 miles or so, were borne out by expert opinion in London. Particular stress was laid on the adaptability of the horse for door-to-door work, where the small dealer has to deliver such articles as bread, milk and coal. The man with a horse need never enter his cart while he is working a street or road, whereas the man with the truck or motor van must enter after one delivery and dismount for the next, unless there are two persons engaged in the operation of one truck.

The increased tax on commercial motor lorries in Britain is causing many business firms to revert to horse traction, and this fact has suggested to the National Horse Association still another slogan: "No tax; long service; intelligence."

FIGHTERS AND FLIERS.

To shake the hand of the man who shook the hand of John L. Sullivan was at one time a privilege for which thousands would have been willing to pay handsomely. When Sullivan wore the belt as the champion heavyweight of the world there was no hall in the United States spacious enough to hold the crowd that wanted to see the big fellow.

Times have changed. Instead of the man with a wallop as its ideal hero, America has transferred its affections to the man who has done what no man ever did before. Today that hero is represented in the person of a modest chap of American birth and Norse blood, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. He never thrashed another human being, and until he started alone and unaided to demonstrate that the Atlantic could be crossed without touching water he was practically unknown to the fellow countrymen.

As soon, however, as he had accomplished what had never been done before the whole world flocked to meet him. On his appearance in Washington enormous crowds greeted him, and the President of the United States changed his vacation program in order that he might receive Lindbergh and confer upon him the Government's highest honor.

Last Saturday evening Gene Tunney, "champion heavyweight of the world," appeared in the auditorium. Fewer than 300 persons greeted him. The explanation made is that so many enthusiasts saw Tunney at the Marine Army game in the afternoon that the novelty had vanished by evening. But that explanation fails to explain the fact that for every man and woman who attended the football game to see Tunney, more than a hundred lined Pennsylvania avenue from the navy yard to the White House to catch a glimpse of "Lindy" as he rode by.

There is only one answer. It is that the American people have changed their allegiance. They have changed from fighters to fliers as their gods of sport.

CHAMBERLIN'S FLIVVER.

While other representatives of the aeronautical industry are laying plans for huge multimotored air liners for commercial operation between distant points, Clarence D. Chamberlin is turning his eyes toward small planes, flivvers of the air. The mass production and chain assembly methods of the Ford Motor Co. will be utilized in their manufacture, and the finished product will be marketed at a price of about $1,500, including necessary instruction in operation.

Chamberlin believes firmly that the children of today's mechanical age will take to the air as easily and naturally as their fathers have taken to the automobile. In proof of this he points to the experience he had with an 11-year-old boy, who successfully piloted a plane after only a few minutes' instruction. The Chamberlin air flivver will be far more easy to operate than that in which the boy had his experience, for it will be fully fool proof, capable of a top speed of around 100 miles an hour and with a landing speed of about 10 miles an hour. It will be capable of taking off and landing with its passenger and pilot in a 100-foot circle.

The aeronautical industry has turned quickly toward capitalizing the "public interest" incited by the thrilling performances of the past summer. Equally spectacular undertakings are contemplated for next summer, which doubtless will command major public interest. The most important developments now in the air, however, are those having to do with utilization of what is already known regarding the airplane and what will become known as the result of further experimental flights.

Transatlantic air liners, now under way, will engross public attention, but the manufacture of the Chamberlin air flivvers, to be undertaken immediately after the first of the year, is of equal importance. Both indicate that the air age is at hand. Once it arrives—when planes are flying across the oceans on regular schedule, and are to be found in the hands of individual private owners, as the motor car is today—further improvements will come thick and fast. Ten years from now the planes that have flown across the Atlantic will look as queer and as antiquated as a 1905 model automobile.

VIOLENCE IN COLORADO.

There has been little doubt for days that violence would break out in the Colorado coal fields. Under the leadership of the Industrial Workers of the World a strike has been maintained therein since October 18. Many of the operators, realizing that serious trouble was brewing, have made no attempt to work their properties. A few, however, demanded protection in order to continue operations.

Several weeks ago Gov. Adams revived the State law enforcement department for the purpose of combating picketing, which had been declared unlawful. At the same time he announced that the Colorado National Guard would be mobilized and martial law declared should conditions become worse. Several days ago, in retaliation, officials of the I. W. W. issued a nation-wide appeal for all "footloose" members to assemble in Colorado to aid in extending the strike. Yesterday a group of strikers attempted to invade the property of the Columbine mine, located 30 miles north of Denver. They met with a hail of bullets from State policemen and left on the battlefield four dead and more than a score of wounded, some of them fatally.

Immediately Gov. Adams declared martial law in the coal fields of northern Colorado, calling out the national guard to enforce it. One troop of Cavalry, two armored tanks, one head quarters company, four companies of Infantry and a medical detachment are now on duty in the area.

Gov. Adams, in calling out troops and declaring martial law, has adopted the only stand possible in the emergency. It is a matter for regret that the disputants were unable to adjust their differences between themselves, but since the authority of the State has been challenged, it is to be hoped that the military will take prompt and drastic steps to bring the situation under control. Strong measures are needed to purge Colorado of the element that seeks to destroy orderly government.

The honk of the goose reminds us that automobiles could get even more pedestrians if they would travel in V formation.

When an ordinary bee stings you, it dies; but a political bee just stings to get more enthusiastic.

Every town has at least one man who is a prominent citizen because the town grew up around him and made him rich.

Our selfish reaction to the prophecy of war in 1928 is that we'll know what stocks to buy this time.

Right After Him.

PRESS COMMENT.

The Winterless Year.
 Ohio State Journal: It looked for a while as if the great winter sport in this wonderful climate were going to be swatting flies.

Opportunity.
 Wall Street Journal: Next thing for scientific breeders to do is to cross the carrier-pigeon with the parrot so that messages can be delivered verbally.

Excitement Ahead.
 Florence Herald: With the primaries the general election and the Literary Digest's straw vote we shall have plenty of excitement next year.

Almost Unbeatable.
 Chicago Tribune: Bill Thompson is reaching out for the presidential nomination on the grounds that he is for America first, farm relief, waterways and flood control. Nobody can beat that unless he adds the Ten Commandments and the multiplication table.

Perspiring Pups.
 Atlanta Constitution: Hot dogs are now being presented without any covering and are called perspiring pups.

British and American Cruisers.
 New York Herald Tribune: The British modern cruiser program points toward the construction, between 1924 and 1926, of from 34 to 37 eight-inch gun carrying cruisers, approximately a total tonnage of 330,000. There are now built, building or appropriated for fourteen cruisers of this sort, with a total tonnage of 133,000. The United States has building, authorized or appropriated for only eight such cruisers with a total tonnage of 80,000. We shall need 35 more to equal the projected British strength in 1936. Carrying two British cruisers over for a year would not redress the balance materially. At least five 10,000-ton ships of this class should be authorized and appropriated for at the coming session. Were they completed by 1936 our Navy would still be below the British navy in cruiser tonnage as a whole, since the British would outnumber us in cruisers of smaller displacements.

The naval conference taught us a lesson its meaning should not be confused now by any Geneva afterthoughts.
 Prohibition Killings.
 Brooklyn Citizen: Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, replying to the charge made by Senator Edwards, of New Jersey, that the killing of citizens by Government agents since prohibition went into effect in 1920 "runs into four figures," states that the total killings of which there are records was actually 175, of whom 49 were prohibition agents. Taking Secretary Lowman's own figures as the basis of comparison, one must conclude that the cost of prohibition in human life is entirely too high, even if prohibition were a blessing, which, it has been conclusively proved, it is not.

Things to Do.
 Cleveland Plain Dealer: Now let's see what is left to do. There is the non-stop flight around the world, of course. But while we are waiting why not pick up a few things such as climbing Mount Everest or squaring the circle or convincing either a wet or a dry that his viewpoint is wrong.
 Construction Figures.
 New Orleans Time: Pickynew: New York City's construction figures for October must have astonished the pessimists, who have been foreseeing a collapse of building operations in the metropolis. Actual contracts let during October were to the value of $101,556,700, the largest for that month ever recorded and the largest for any month since last December. The figure certainly indicates no collapse of construction, and it is made in the face of new highs for construction costs so far as labor and some materials are concerned. Those who had imagined the saturation point at hand in housing, both commercial and domestic, will have to revise their figures. Or else the builders are showing far less judgment than the fraternity usually is given credit for. Surely, if it were even surmised in Gotham that construction costs were due for lower rates

Theft of Time

By ROBERT QUILEN

LABOR and service are commodities. If one gets his living by labor with his hands, labor is his stock in trade. If he gets his living by framing laws, the ability to frame laws is his stock in trade.

There is general understanding of the fact that taking another man's goods is theft, but there is a widespread belief that taking the other man's money and failing to deliver him the service, he has a right to expect in return is not theft. Yet there is little difference between the crimes. Dishonor is dishonor.

If you hire a plumber by the hour and buy from him certain fixtures to be installed, he will not install one bathtub and charge you for two. The theft would be too easily discovered. But he may charge you for eight hours of labor and give you but five. Is it less a crime to steal three hours of time that you have paid for than to steal material you have paid for?

A member of Congress would not make off with public money, but he will steal the hours that he has sold to the people and idle when he should be studying the bills that are offered for his approval. If his theft of the people's time results in unfair and ill-considered legislation, is he not a greater criminal than one who steals the public's money?

If the grocer sells a dozen eggs and delivers but nine, is he not a swindler? Each of us has something to sell. If he delivers the thing he sells, he is honest; if he fails to deliver the whole of it, he is a rascal, without acquaintance with honor.

Our standards have become too loose. If a newspaper fails to print the news, it defrauds its patrons. If a physician is negligent or ignorant, he defrauds his patrons. If the workman loafs during the hours he has sold to his employers, he defrauds. There are thieves who do not use a jimmy and a drill.

What every husband probably desires is a wife who can look like a million dollars in a $7.98 coat.

If his lower jaw sags while he listens he is going to believe what the orator is saying.

The trouble seems to be that denunciation of jazz comes only from thinkers and feet don't think.

You can't always judge by circumstantial evidence. Sometimes people speak well of a fellow-townsmen who isn't even sick.

(Copyright, 1927.)

the Bureau of Standards, and in each instance this instrument showed that he had ascended more than eight miles. But it is evident that the finding of his body in the balloon was not after his last flight filled the technical requirements established by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. Hence, a new altitude record has been established, and so long as it stands it will be a memorial to the heroic airman.

Bring On the Fruit.
 Topeka Capital: Added to the well-known formula that an apple a day will keep the doctor away, it is discovered that an orange a day will keep the dentist away. Maybe a plum a day would keep the lawyers away.

A Typical Author.
 Detroit News: A Pittsburgh author is in jail. He couldn't even write a good check.

The Game of Politics.
 Cincinnati Enquirer: Frightened politicians next summer will be running round in circles playing "drop the issue."

Better to Perjure.
 Kansas City Star: A judge has ruled that a man who guessed a woman's age too high is not a perjurer. Put after he hears the woman's opinion he probably will wish he had gone in for perjury exclusively.

"THE CAT."
 Shadows creep along the street
 At night in Cleveland Park Robbers reap, while people sleep,
 And it is still as dark
 In the houses no one rouses
 While The Cat makes his haul.
 It's mysterious, say the serious,
 We can't find The Cat at all.
 Cops on the run the chase begun,
 He's like the famous Bat;
 He'll rob and dare till we find his lair
 And the judge will skin The Cat.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Shop Early.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For many years slogans have been posted before and during the Christmas season advising the public to "Shop early and avoid the rush." The word "early" in this injunction is generally understood to refer to the time of the season. However, an equally important meaning of the word should be interpreted as specifying the time of the day. An early start on buying expeditions, either now or at any other season, is advisable for three important reasons. First, personal faculties, both mental and physical, are in a better trim immediately after a night's rest, and the average individual is better qualified to find quickly the object of his search, his mind is fresher and he is not so critical and fault-finding. This same outlook should in all fairness be accorded the clerk who happens to be at his service.

Secondly, procrastination, the usual reason for putting off till later what should be done earlier, also influences the action of others, with the result that all department stores are crowded toward the closing hours of the day.

Third, after months' handling and inspection, many forms of merchandise are the worse for wear, resulting in a lack of choice afforded the late shopper. If you must shop, shop early—early in the season and, above all, early in the day.

Army and Navy Tickets.
 To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read your editorial entitled "Army and Navy Tickets," in the issue of Sunday, November 20, 1927. Is it fair to assume that the secretaries to the congressmen are alone responsible for this alleged condition of affairs?

Each congressman is entitled to receive four tickets from the Navy at a cost of $3.50 per ticket, and two complimentary tickets from the Army. Now there are only 531 congressmen. The greatest number of tickets that can be received by the congressmen is 3,194, which is certainly only a small fraction of the number of tickets disposed of when it is considered that approximately 50,000 persons attend the Army-Navy game. Surely, if every congressional ticket were put on the market to the highest bidder, or even a large proportion of them, the number of tickets traded would represent only a fraction of the business of ticket scalping which takes place annually.

RUGH B. GRANT.

Criminal Aliens.
 To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The feeling is growing among Americans that our doors should be more firmly and rigidly closed to immigration from Russia, and some other countries of Europe. They send to our shores none but radical scoundrels, and they spread that pernicious doctrine far and wide. Not that alone, but they become members of lawless gangs soon after reaching our shores. Take the gang murderers committed in New York and Chicago. Nearly every one arrested for those crimes proves to be a recent immigrant. Let our doors be shut, and then let the Government rake the country as with a fine tooth comb, and deport every undesirable found in the country. Let us clean house.
 AMERICA.

Hyattsville Escaped.
 To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The map of the cyclone is wrong, as far as Hyattsville is concerned. Hyattsville's ice plant is in Bladensburg, on the far side of Eastern Branch. Positively no damage was done in Hyattsville, either by wind or fire.
 B. E. McANNAN, Fire Marshal.

The New Combination Orthophonic Victrolas and Radiolas Are Delightful Christmas Gifts

The marvelous Orthophonic Victrolas, giving you "the music you want when you want it and in the way you want it" have been combined with fine radio instruments that bring you all the many features being broadcast. You must see these instruments, hear them and operate them to appreciate their many points of superiority.

The Orthophonic—brings natural sound reproduction in all of its mellowness, its musical range and its instrumental individuality and harmony with none of the mechanical imperfections and "scratchings" that have spoiled the reproduction qualities of former Victrolas.

The Radio—brings the many exclusive and noteworthy features of national broadcasting directly to your own home, reproducing the famous speeches, musical selections and novelties that, a few years ago, would have been limited to a selected number. The machines are Radiolas, made by the RCA, which vouches for their supremacy in the field of radio reception.

Above—An Orthophonic Victrola Radiola that is "convenient, compact and economical." Ask to see machine No. 7-10, priced at $275.

Above—An Electrola Radiola that features an Orthophonic with electric amplification as well as a Radiola superheterodyne. No. 9-25, $1,150.

Two Orthophonic Victrolas That Are Ideal Christmas Gifts

Left—A Credenza-type Orthophonic Victrola that, in its Italian Renaissance cabinet, contains the full size sound Chamber. No. 8-30 Electric, $335.

Right—An Orthophonic Victrola in a fine cabinet that is styled much on the order of the Credenza. Ask to see machine No. 8-12, priced at $235.

KAISER'S SISTER WEBS IN GREEK RITE SPLENDOR

Orange Blooms, Imperial Veil, Golden Crown and Coronet
Grace the Ritual.

WHITE CARPET ON FLOOR

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The proud former Kaiser of Germany today acquired a brother-in-law who has been a sailor and professional dancer. The deposed ruler's 61-year-old sister, Princess Victoria Schaumburg-Lippe, was united here in a religious ceremony to Alexander Sykoff, 27-year-old refugee, to whom she was married in a civil ceremony Saturday.

The princess became plain Frau Sykoff amid all the pomp and splendor customary in a Greek orthodox church wedding. Shortly before the hour fixed for the ceremony about 40 carefully selected guests assembled in the magnificent red salon of Victoria's palace, the corners of which were decorated with huge bunches of white chrysanthemums. In the center of the room stood an improvised altar bearing valuable gold and silver ritual vessels flanked on each side by tall candles.

The bride and groom, preceded by a Russian priest who was accompanied by a psalm singer. The bride wore a historical veil which was first used by the Empress Frederick and is one of the most valuable heirlooms of the German royal house. It was held on the princess' head by a wreath of orange blossoms over a narrow jeweled coronet.

After prayers the two exchanged rings under the priest's direction while the bride and the bridegroom each held a burning candle adorned with ribbons and orange blossoms. They stepped onto a white carpet in the center of the room to exchange their marriage vows while the official witnesses, Count Merenberg and Herr von Treu, held a large byzantine gold crown over the heads.

The priest, after having offered them wine from a golden cup, solemnly concluded the marriage by three times around the altar, the couple repaired to an adjoining hall where covers were laid for twelve for a wedding dinner.

The refusal of the Lutheran Synod to perform the ceremony is attributed to the influence of the former kaiser, who opposed the marriage. Princess Vio-toria resorted to the Greek Orthodox Church of her husband in the emergency.

RITZ TOWER "SEIGE"

ENDS IN ARMISTICE

Capt. Miles Signs Check for $400 and Gets First Meal in 17 Days.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Capt. A.
Graham Miles signed an armistice with the management of the Ritz Tower apartment tonight and enjoyed his first square meal since he began his self-imposed imprisonment in his rooms seventeen days ago.

What Capt. Miles actually signed was a check covering $400 of the debts the apartment hotel management claims he owes. Since November 5 Capt. Miles has remained within his apartment, asserting that the management was not waiting for him to leave it for a moment to seize the opportunity to lock him out permanently.

No sooner had the check been delivered than the hotel service, which was cut off when the Capt. began his siege, was restored. The telephone worked again, barbers and manicurists answered his ring and a waiter hovered at his shoulder awaiting his order for a real dinner.

He was ready to move tomorrow, he announced, having arranged with his bank to post checks totaling $1,130 to cover his indebtedness to the hotel.

Washington Hadassah

To Hold Ball Tonight

The tenth annual ball of the Washington Chapter of Hadassah will be held tonight in the ballroom of the New Willard Hotel. Proceeds from the sale of tickets to the ball will be used to carry on the activities of the Hadassah maintains in the Holy Land.

Mrs. John Safer, president of the local chapter, announced last night that all arrangements for the ball had been completed. Mrs. William I. Ogus is chairman of the ball committee. Mrs.
Herman Shapiro is chairman of the program committee and Mrs. Julius Wolpe is chairman of the ticket committee.

CAIRO HOTEL
QUE ST. AT 16THThe House of Human Welfare
by Judge Ben B. Lindsay

John Brown forged a check for $100, and the bank caught him doing it. True to law, the criminal court sent him up for ten years. True to life, this was a psychic and physical crippling. What are these punishment machines that are our courts? Where—oh, where—is the House of Human Welfare?

It had its working model—this House of Human Welfare—in Judge Lindsay's Juvenile and Family Court in Denver, before that came to its sudden, heart-sickening smash. In his article in the December Forum, Judge Lindsay is constructively brutal about our courts and their medieval methods; and builds up, brick by brick, a cool, quiet refuge. . . . A tremendous idea article for all-round discussion.

Read this. Also the horrors of escapes from Devil's Island (the French Penal Colony) in an article by Blair Niles in the December Forum. Also "Is Man Fundamentally Honest?" by Clarence Darrow. A debate on the imperialism of Uncle Sam. The third instalment of the fascinating novel "Disraeli" by André Maurois—and other articles and stories. The Forum costs 40c a single copy. Out today at news-stands.

LIGHT OPERA COMPANY
SCORES A MUSICAL HIT

"Robin Hood." Revived in President Theater—Recalls Glories of Washington.

MANY ENCORES SOUGHT

The opera of "Robin Hood," like the archery of the fabulist outlaw, always hits the bull's eye of musical favor and Reginald DeKoven's masterpiece, by its excellence of score and Harry B. Smith's book can even defy a mediocre performance.

But last night's presentation by the President Theater Light Opera Company had nothing of the mediocre about it. In fact, it was as capable a performance by a resident musical organization as Washington has witnessed for some time.

Nor were there any of the flaws of an opening night apparent to the most capricious critic. The large chorus added much to the brilliant ensemble numbers, sang with a sureness that bespoke excellent direction; and the principals brought many encores for the famous airs that besprinkle the score. One number in particular, "Brown October Ale," sung heartily and well by Ivan Arbuckle, so caught the fancy of the audience that the only complete breathlessness of the singer finally won him release.

The scenery and costumes were refreshingly adequate. Those who delight in opera comique should not overlook the entertainment on tap at the President. It is to be hoped that the promised production of the Gulliver of Sullivan repertoire will be as excellently staged.

Harry Pfeil sang the role of the outlaw of Sherwood Forest, who pillaged the rich under the name of Robin Hood until restored to his rightful estate as the Earl of Huntington. He was ably supported by Ivan Arbuckle as Will Scarlet and William Mitchell as Little John, the latter not only acquitting himself well musically but in addition living up to the status requirements of the part.

The Sheriff of Nottingham was entrusted to Ed Andrews and if he fell a little short in the vocal demands he more than made up for by the effectiveness and restraint of his comedy, particularly the drunken scene in the second act.

Hazel Huntington made an attractive Maid Marian, Anne Yago won applause with her singing of "O Promise Me," and Mary Craig played the part of Anabel, who through the years has been causing trouble for Robin Hood and others. Lee Daly appeared as Friar Tuck, Leonard Tully as Guy of Gisborne, and Martha Jonas, as Dame Burdette.

There is one suggestion to offer the property man of the company. It is not believed that letters in the time of Richard the Lion Hearted bore stamps and certainly not air mail ones.

4 POLICEMEN HURT
AS CAR OVERTURNS

Reserve Wagon, on Way Back From Fire, Upsets in Collision.

Four policemen were injured yesterday afternoon when the reserve wagon in which they were returning from a fire at 346½ Maryland avenue southwest overturned in a collision at Sixth and B streets northeast. Charles L. Besitt, 1513 Massachusetts avenue southeast, driver of the car with which the reserve wagon collided, was arrested, charged with failure to give right of way to the police car.

The injured policemen are M. I. Bridges, of the Ninth Precinct, driver, two broken leg bones, a dislocated left ankle, abrasions and bruises, taken to Naval Hospital at his request; Policeman R. C. Speth, Fifth Precinct, sprained right ankle and contusions; L. B. Martin, Second Precinct, wrenched back and bruised head; and Policeman G. I. Hellmuth, Sixth Precinct, although suffering from a bruised ankle, arrested Besitt before going home for treatment.

Hellmuth said the police car was going east on B street with its siren wide open and the Besitt car was moving slowly north on Sixth street at the time of the collision. Both cars were badly damaged. Besitt is a ticket agent employed by the Washington Terminal Co.

Man Is Killed, 6 Hurt
In Building Collapse

Greer, S. C., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—One man was killed and six others injured when a building occupied by a 10-cent store collapsed here today after fire had wrecked the second floor.

The body of Carl Miller was taken from the debris soon after the collapse and search was being made to ascertain whether or not others might be buried in the tangle of timbers. Russell de Shields, of Greer, was seriously injured. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

 Anne Page, her daughter.....Elinor Temple
 Mistress Quickly, servant to Doctor Caius.....Mistress Quickly Robert.....Robert
 John.....John
 John Rugby, servant to Dr. Caius.....John Rugby

A long time since one of the Shakespearean comedies came to be played with such spirit and verve as this, "The Merry Wives of Windsor," in its splendid setting on the stage of the National Theater. Among the first nighters who sat enthralled before the onslaughts of the Gulliver of Sullivan players was the first senator from Idaho, the Hon. Fred Dubois, a regular attendant of the theater when Booth and Barrett held forth, in what everybody calls the golden days of theater. "This," he remarked, after witnessing the merry-making of Mrs. Fiske, Otis Skinner, Henrietta Crosman et al., "is the spirit of Shakespeare."

So it is. True enough, this happy combination works magic. By the grace of their years on the boards, their vast experiences and their sympathetic rendition of comedy roles, the three featured players find here something to stir the imaginations of theatergoers—old and new—to the joys of the footlights. This is a fine blending of talents.

As Sir John Falstaff, the rare old rouse and rogue outwitted by the buxom ladies twain, Mr. Skinner is very happily cast; perhaps as well in any of his later years of theatrical work. Save some special performance, this is really his first attempt at the Falstaff business; but in his half century or more on the boards, he fashioned kindred roles, so that this comes naturally and easy to the actor who reveals in swash-buckling characterization. Mrs. Fiske brings with her, as she always must, a certain rare reflection of past triumphs—and Henrietta Crosman, too; all of course, to make for a holiday on stage. They play, these two, the roles of Mistress Page and Mistress Ford, the ladies who, Boccaccio-like, make sport of the foolhardy Falstaff.

A goodly company of players surround the featured three. One, Eleanor Gordon, playing Miss Quickly, the go-between, carrier of messages to and fro, from the ladies to Falstaff, plays her part with her, as she always must, a certain rare reflection of past triumphs—and Henrietta Crosman, too; all of course, to make for a holiday on stage. They play, these two, the roles of Mistress Page and Mistress Ford, the ladies who, Boccaccio-like, make sport of the foolhardy Falstaff.

Produced and directed, edited and arranged by Harrison Gray Fiske, this rollicking comedy by the Bard of Avon is presented here with all the sparkle of a modern piece, and that, without destroying the atmosphere of another time and clime. There should be more like it.

ANN DAVIS TRIUMPHS
IN EVANGELISTIC PLAY

Romantic Drama at Belasco Built on Career of Noted Woman Preacher.

ROBERT AMES IN CAST

What is purported to be a drama based on the actual evangelistic work of a celebrated Pacific Coast character—

one Anne Davis—Mother—wended its way into the portals of the Belasco Theater last night. It is called "Bless You, Sister."

The central character is a palmarist who treads about the land, from one end to the other, administering to the faithful.

With the aid of some local talent, the play—from the pens of John Meehan and Robert Ames—brings to Washington in its leading role a young actress who has been acclaimed here many times. She is Miss Ann Davis.

The play has to do with evangelism, pure and simple; and, as such, does for evangelism what such plays as "Chicago" and "Broadway" have done for the more sordid sides of life.

The story, in a nut shell, is of an old minister and his daughter—a minister kicked out of his parish by conniving members. He has, luckily, a beautiful daughter. When comes a wandering Bible salesman, a fellow who sees in this field a lucrative occupation—the girl falls in love with him. Imbued with a religious fervor, she becomes a palmarist. There is the linking line between the career of Anne Davis and the leading character in "Bless You, Sister," a play, by the by, that only in the first bloom of youth has possibilities.

Aside from Ann Davis—who does splendid work in the portrayal of the central character—there is young Robert Ames who heads the supporting cast. He is well cast. For once in the career of the Belasco Theater it is a new play, freshly made, that is not without its merits.

There is one big scene—the Tabernacle scene—that scores heavily, and there are several outstanding characterizations by prominent players, notably those of Charles Bickford and Mildred McLeod.

Hunter Shoots Self
As He Climbs Fence

H. B. Posey, 60 years old, of La Plata, Md., was injured seriously yesterday morning when he accidentally shot himself in the leg while going over a fence during a rabbit hunt.

Although the accident occurred about 11 o'clock yesterday morning the injured man was not brought to Providence Hospital until late last night. According to the attendants at the hospital, Mr. Posey was weakened considerably by the loss of blood. An operation will be performed today.

Baltimore Dries Arrest Man With Chemists' Report. Alcohol Seized.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Chemists' report of liquor unfit for beverage purposes, which were found in the pockets of Benjamin Lerner, when arrested by prohibition authorities today brought an order for analysis of alcohol seized at his arrest.

Of 26 deaths in November from alcohol, 15 are laid to poisoned liquor and three are under investigation.

The reports found on Lerner were from Philadelphia. They stated that liquor analyzed for him contained denatured alcohol, a deadly poison.

The house, valued at $2,000, was wrecked, together with all its contents.

London Hears Burrage Complained of Treatment at Gibraltar.

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, Nov. 21.—It is reported in foreign diplomatic quarters in London that Vice Admiral Guy Burrage, commanding the American naval squadron in European waters, got into a serious smart with the British authorities at Gibraltar and complained to Washington of his treatment.

Admiral Burrage left Gibraltar for Bizerta November 17, which was a few days before schedule, but it was stated that it was three months before he intended leaving. It was said he had planned to base the squadron at Gibraltar for three months and desired to have repairs made at the dockyards.

The play has to do with evangelism, pure and simple; and, as such, does for evangelism what such plays as "Chicago" and "Broadway" have done for the more sordid sides of life.

LISZT'S WORKS ARE HEARD ON HIS OWN GRAND PIANO

Historic Instrument Played in Masterful Fashion by Jacques Jolas.

CONTRASTS ARE OFFERED

Franz Liszt's own piano, on which he composed many of his immortal works, awoke to melodious life again last night in the Masonic Auditorium, at a concert given on the historic instrument by Jacques Jolas, the noted pianist.

The concert was given under the auspices of the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs through the courtesy of the Arthur Jordan Piano Co. Liszt's piano has been treasured for 60 years and its permanent home is in the Royal Hungarian Franz Liszt Academy of Music at Budapest.

Despite its age, the famous piano, which is a beautiful rosewood Chickering grand, is in splendid condition and has a lovely, resonant tone. Great interest was exhibited in the piano by the audience and after the concert many crowded to the platform to examine it more closely. It is said that after this tour through the leading American cities this musical relic will be returned to the ancient Budapest academy to be preserved there for posterity.

While last night's program was not entirely devoted to Liszt compositions, many of his works were featured. The group of three Liszt numbers which he played on the famous piano of the composer received the greatest acclaim of all from the audience. The rest of the program was given on a modern grand piano by way of contrast.

In the first group a Bach-Liszt number appeared the "Fantasy and Fugue G. Minor." M. Jolas' tone was of a lovely, singing quality, and while his interpretations were virile, yet he retained tenderness and emotional stress as well.

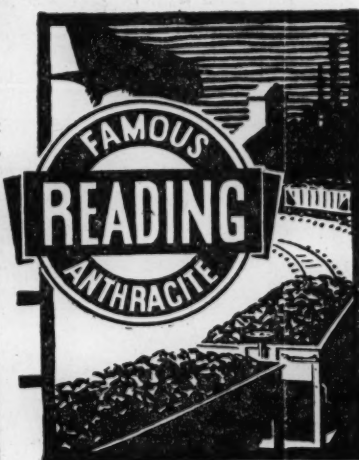

The two other numbers of the first group, "Les Barcarolles Mysterieuses," by Couperin, and "L'Egyptienne," by Rameau, gave the artist a chance to display his fine feeling for shade, color and phrase line. In Mozart's "Sonata in F. Major," M. Jolas infused sonority and rhythmic refinement and brought out in a fascinating manner the delicate nuances of the score.

For the numbers on the Liszt piano he selected the "Spazializio," "Bord d'une Source" and "Un Sopra." In response to encores the pianist played other Liszt numbers, among them his "Dream of Love." E. E. F.

Appropriations Post
Predicted for Bacon

Representative Robert L. Bacon, of New York, will probably be appointed a member of the House appropriations committee when Congress convenes. He will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Walter W. Magee, of New York.

Bacon is now a member of the House committee on census, education, immigration and naturalization, insular affairs, library and merchant marine and fisheries. It is expected that he will surrender his assignments on these groups if appointed to the appropriations committee.

1927 GOOD FOR BUILDERS, STOKES TELLS EXCHANGE

Declares Government Projects Will Make 1928 Unusually Active Year.

MEMBER DRIVE OPENED

Although 1927 has not been as active in building as 1926, it has been a good one for builders, compared with former years, Earl Stokes, secretary of the National Association of Builders' Exchanges, declared yesterday at a "pep" luncheon of the Washington Builders' and Manufacturers' Exchange, which started a membership drive for a minimum of 100 new members at the Raleigh Hotel.

Stokes predicted 1928 will be an unusually active one for the Capital, when the Government strikes its full stride on the Mail construction program and private interests go forward with contemplated projects.

He also urged workers to make the local exchange a model one for the country, giving the utmost in service to both public and members. The local body is composed of general and sub-contractors and material men, who are urging a program of all year round building, stressing the fact that buildings constructed during winter can be completed for the spring market.

The membership drive will continue ten days, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week have been set aside as special days for a "whirlwind wind-up." The steering committee directing the efforts of the local exchange is composed of R. W. Cummings chairman, Arthur L. Smith, W. E. Mooney, George Wine and Fred Drew. Another luncheon will be held next Tuesday at the Raleigh, when reports will be received and tabulated, and a final meeting at 4:30 o'clock the following afternoon will complete the drive.

Woman Burned by Gasoline.

Mrs. Agnes McGruder, 23 years old, 524 Fifth street northwest, was slightly burned yesterday when a quantity of gasoline, with which she was cleaning a dress, ignited from a nearby stove. No. 22 Engine Company was called and firemen extinguished the blaze. Mrs. McGruder was treated at home.

BACK of YOUR BOTTLE

WHAT kind of milk you give your family depends pretty much on the resources and equipment of the firm from whom you buy it. That one sentence expresses the true significance of the new Thompson's Dairy plant at 2012 Eleventh Street, N. W.

You see Nature puts the value into Milk. Farmers who are careful to see that the cows are healthy and all surroundings clean will produce good milk. But good milk on the farm is one thing—and good milk at your door quite another.

The character of your milk at your home depends on the care that milk has had between the farms and the city.

That's the justification for such establishments as the new plant of Thompson's Dairy—

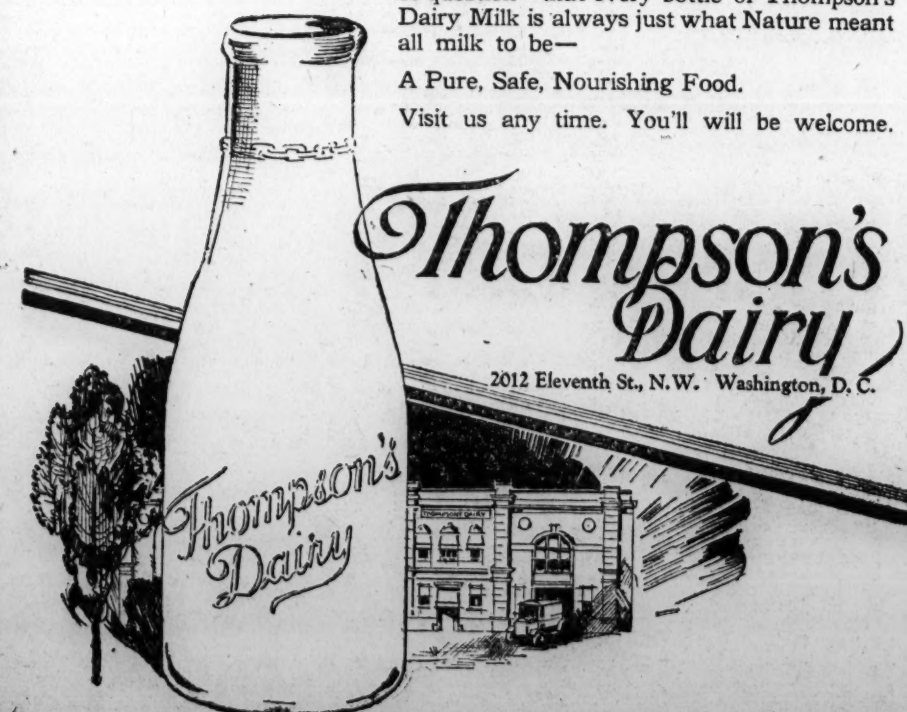

To take care of the milk used in your home.

This plant represents every safeguard that modern ingenuity has developed and money could buy. It represents every protection that modern science has devised—

Set up to make sure—past any possibility of question—that every bottle of Thompson's Dairy Milk is always just what Nature meant all milk to be—

THE WIFE and CO.

By LYLE HAMILTON.

Names and situations in this story are fictitious.

THE STORY SO FAR.

Molly and her husband, who is a writer, have been married for a year. Molly is a typewriter operator and her husband is a writer. They are living in a small apartment in a tenement house. Molly is a very good typewriter operator and her husband is a very good writer. They are both very happy and are looking forward to the future.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

"I have a half-day situation for you," said the woman at the employment office, over the wire. "You said you wanted one. It's $40 a month. Hours 10 to 5. Address—she paused, evidently to consult her notes—"Address is Wisconsin avenue. Please see you at 12.30. Her name is Buck. Mrs. Buck. If you take the place, let me know."

The employment agent hung up the phone. Forty dollars a month! It was a good deal more than half what she had been before. Still, it was a half-day job, and she would have time to take care of the three-room apartment. Wisconsin avenue was a top-notch place where Molly lived. She'd have to start early to keep the appointment. After some thought she put on the winter dress which she had been married and pinned one of the carnations from the dinner table at her waist.

At 12.30 she rang the bell of Mrs. Buck's house. It wasn't usual for people to employ typographers at home, but on careful survey Molly found that it was a two-story dwelling with a front porch, and flower boxes along the railing.

A young woman, who might have been in her middle thirties—opened the door.

"I'm Mrs. Brownell," said Molly. "I understand you are looking for a typist."

The woman gave a quick glance at the visitor's costume. Then she smiled and swung the door wide. "Come in," she said.

Leading the way into a small front room, Mrs. Brownell said, "You're the first stenographer I ever hired. This was my wedding dress," she said.

"Oh—and do you wish to be married?" Mrs. Buck's voice was warmly sympathetic. "And don't you hate it?"

"I don't exactly have to work," said Molly. "But I decided I'd rather work than wear old clothes that are out of date, and stay away from places because I'm not fit to be seen."

"Molly's eyes were fixed on the woman's pink silk negligee, with its lace sleeves."

"I bought this," said the other, touching the silk with her hand. "I bought that—she pointed to a radio set that stood in a corner of the room—and I bought these new snakeskin slippers—and I paid $2,000 for this rug out of my own money."

Molly gazed at the woman, who was the one that was in her own room cost only eighty-five.

"What did you want to do?" Molly inquired.

"Yes—I was private secretary to my husband's boss before I was married," Molly said, with some pride.

"Well, I only have a few letters to dictate. What I want mostly is to have things copied on the typewriter. You see, I'm Evelyn Ellis Ellison."

Apparently it was Molly's duty to express delight at this announcement. She only looked puzzled, however.

"Don't you read the magazines?" demanded Mrs. Buck, a little ruffled.

"Haven't you heard of me?"

"I hardly ever read anything, much," Molly said. "I never have time."

"I'll declare!" The woman wagged her head. "I thought every girl in the country knew me. I get letters—shaves off them—from girls about my writings."

"Oh—do you write for the magazines?" Light was dawning in Molly's mind.

"Write! I write true confessions and detective stories and mysteries and intimate diaries—I'm the one who write that tremendous success about How I Won Women. Of course, I didn't sign it Evelyn Ellis Ellison. That one was signed 'By the Man That Women Mad Over.' It was quoted every place. I only use Evelyn Ellis Ellison on the sweet, simple love stories."

"So you're an author," Molly said, with deep respect.

"Yes—in my humble way," Mrs. Buck's manner was not especially humble, but her eyes were cast to the ceiling. "The Confession Magazine use so much of my writings. I've confessed to almost everything a person can do. She smiled at this. "But chiefly I do the Ellison stuff—the magazines can't get enough of it. But—" she added hesitantly—"go, how I hate it."

"But why? I should think it would be lovely to thrill people so."

"What do I care about thrilling them? I'd rather look at my husband is a musician—gives lessons, you know—and how he hates my radio!" She looked at the instrument in the corner and smiled once more broadly.

"I'd rather hear the radio than listen to his pupils squeaking on the violin, though. It helps me to write something—the stuff that comes over it is so foolish, don't you think?"

Just then the foolishness of the radio selections helped her to write was not clear, and Molly did not ask.

"There's no money in music teaching," continued Mrs. Buck. "Sometimes I wish he'd get a place in one of the orchestras. Still, if he did he couldn't take me places in the evenings."

"What would my work be?" Molly inquired.

"Mostly copying manuscript," said the author. "I've never learned to write on the typewriter. I can find the right keys, but I can't think of anything to say unless I'm working with a pen. I've been sending my stuff out to get it typed, but it costs so much! They charge me sixty or seventy dollars for copying a full-length novel. Can you imagine that?"

Molly did a brief calculation in her head. "I can copy about four thousand words in an afternoon," she said. "Five days a week, four weeks—that's 80,000 words a month."

"How wonderful! None of my novels run that long—and only $40 instead of $70," Mrs. Buck was pleased. "But why do you count only five days a week?"

"I always got Saturday afternoons off," Molly said.

"But that was when you were working all day! When you're working only half a day, I shouldn't think you'd want to omit an entire afternoon—especially when you're getting full pay for it!"

"I'm not getting full pay," Molly retorted. "I got $25 a week where I worked before. That's nearly $110 a month."

"Very well—very well," said Mrs. Buck, hastily. "I wasn't trying to haggle. Come to think of it, I'm hardly ever home on Saturdays, anyway. And you're such a dear, pretty girl I'd be glad to have you here if it was only four days a week."

"At this gracious sentence, Molly's clear face lit up. "When shall I start?"

"Mr. Buck thought a moment. 'Suppose you start Monday. I'll have to start saving to pay your salary—it's terrible, isn't it, can't you meet it?'"

"Indeed it is! I counted up this morning and I've got only $2 left out of my husband's salary! He gets paid every Saturday."

"You poor child! I've got $4," Mrs. Buck stood with a finger to her lip, she thought. "Listen—$40 a month is about $2 a day, isn't it? Suppose you write for me just this afternoon, and I'll give you $2! Then you'll have $4 and I'll have $2! But I've got a check coming in."

"It's awfully kind of you, Mrs. Buck. But—Molly counted on her fingers. Her lips moved—"But $40 a month, five days a week, is about $180, figuring 22 days to a month."

"That's wonderful," said her new employer, anxiously. "I wish I was good at figures. Well, get your things off and I'll bring in some manuscript."

She trotted out and returned in a few moments, lugging a typewriter under one arm and bearing a sheaf of papers in the other. Depositing the machine on the center table with a bump, she panted: "There! I bought that typewriter at a bargain six months ago. It's pretty rusty, but I think it'll work when it gets a new ribbon in it. Maybe it needs some oil, too."

Half an hour later Molly, seated on a dictionary—the table was so high that it was necessary to elevate herself so she could write—started on her new duties. She had cleaned the old typewriter as best she could, had lubricated it with some salad oil that Mrs. Buck found for her and had tightened one or two screws with a hairpin. It still needed a new ribbon, which Molly promised to get before she came again on Monday.

The scratchy, blot-marked, pen-and-ink copy of a manuscript lay at her side. It was entitled "Her Maiden Passion," by Evelyn Ellis Ellison.

Molly bent to read the first paragraph.

"The girl lifted her eyes to heaven," it began.

"Warm lips were pressed to hers; hot lips: lips that burned. Her eyes traveled, terror-haunted, toward the door. Was there no escape?"

Molly picked up the manuscript and continued reading.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

INVITATIONS FROM TWO.

DEAR Miss Singleton: What shall I do in these circumstances? I have an invitation from two families who are bringing out two daughters at a dancing ten at a hotel. I only know one of the families. How shall I answer the invitations? What is expected of me and my husband if we go? What if we do not go? P. J. S.

It is not unusual for people to combine in this way to give parties in society. There's no reason why it should not be, for it is a perfectly sensible thing to do. If one family can not entertain as pleasantly for their daughter alone as two families can entertain for two daughters, by all means let them combine. But it does make confusion among some of the invited guests.

If I ever got an invitation from two families for such an occasion, I should answer it (if it were formal) like this:

Miss Anne Singleton accepts with pleasure (or) (regrets that she can not accept) Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Brown's and Mr. and Mrs. John Raymond's kind invitation for Tuesday, November the twenty-ninth at half past four o'clock.

If it were an At Home card with R. S. V. P., I should answer it in the same way. It is not necessary to put in the daughters' names. The answer should be simplified to the extent, and I should address it to the lady I know.

If the invitation were a simple card with the intimation that a dancing ten was taking place on such a day, at such an hour, I should not answer at all.

If I went, I should expect to see and talk to a few friends (and if I wished to) and come away. Whether I went or not, I should go about a week later and leave cards for both families.

U. S. COURT THROWS OUT KLAN COUNTERACTIONS

Fight Between Knights and Banished Members Is Suddenly Ended.

'CLEAN HANDS' DEMANDED

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Counter actions of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and five "banished members" against each other both thrown out of Federal court today.

United States District Judge W. H. S. Thomas dismissed the suit of the Klan against five western Pennsylvanians seeking to have them enjoined from interfering with the affairs of the organization and asking $100,000 damages from each of them.

The court likewise denied the application of the "banished members" for an injunction to bar the Klan from Pennsylvania and the appointment of a receiver over its properties in this State.

The action by the Klan was filed against the Rev. John P. Strayer, Charles S. Hunter, Charles F. Oyer, William C. Davis and Van A. Barrickman. The damages were sought upon a claim that they collected funds of the organization after their dismissal. Denying the allegations, the defendants, supported by affidavits from others, sought a court order barring Klan incited riots, lynchings, kidnappings and other acts of violence.

"The plaintiff is asking for equitable relief and must come into court with clean hands," Judge Thomson said in the Klan from the State, charging the Klan with the violation of the law. "The averments of fact in the answer and counterclaim, if established, would clearly deprive the plaintiff of any relief in a court of equity. No gross violation of the laws of the land can ever hope for relief, particularly in equity. The court would not hesitatingly refuse its aid to any litigant who came before it as a violator of the law, even though the cause might show merit on its face. The court would leave the parties where it found them."

Affidavits filed by the "banished members" and their supporters charged the Klan, among other things, with responsibility for the fatal Carnegie and Lilly (Pa.) riots, the abduction of a child and the lynching of a negro, all the disorders named as having occurred in 1923, when Sam D. Rich, of Pittsburgh, was State grand dragon. It was also claimed the Klan had collected $15,000,000 in Pennsylvania within the last seven years without an accounting.

Counsel for the Klan, in arguing the case, said the charges against the organization were not substantiated, and that the action of the "banished members" was brought after the Rev. H. C. Shaw, of Erie, was appointed grand dragon and a minority refused to obey him, resulting in their dismissal.

Library Branch Opens In East Washington

The East Washington branch of the Public Library in the Eastern High School was opened formally last night at a public meeting under the auspices of the East Washington Community Center, in celebration of its tenth anniversary. Samuel Frantz, chairman of the East Washington advisory committee, presided at the ceremony.

Dr. George F. Bowerman, city librarian, declared the new branch library would afford residents greater opportunities for educational recreation.

Miss Sibyl Baker, director of the community centers, praised the efforts of the East Washington Community Center in taking the branch library to Eastern High School.

BIRTH CONTROL URGED BY 'GLOOMY DEAN' INGE

Humanity to Animals Also Advocated; Sees New Religion in Future.

UNCERTAIN AS TO DIET

London, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Advocating humanity toward animals, Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, in a lecture before the British Science Guild tonight declared: "If the lower animals could devise a religion, they would certainly represent the devil as a great white man."

He predicted that two generations hence, faith healing will be placed on a scientific basis; there will be progress in race and birth control, and, with these, the disappearance of blood sports and a more humane attitude toward animals.

"If there is a personal God," said Dean Inge, "he certainly is not like a capricious Oriental sultan from whom favors may be obtained by making friends with his courtiers; neither is he a magnified schoolmaster distributing prizes and punishments."

He argued that if it was plain to a good citizen that there was no longer room in the class or nation to which he belongs for large families, it was his duty to adopt birth control. With ref-

Livers Could Have Retained Self-Control After Blow, Say Experts.

WISE AWAITES NEW QUIZ

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 21.—The fistie encounter early last Thursday morning between Spencer Wise, of Washington, and Leo A. Livers, of this city, following a card game at a hotel, is being considered as a possible cause of the skull fracture which resulted in the death of Livers at a Baltimore hospital Friday, authorities said today.

The encounter, details of which were given authorities by Wise, Clyde E. Smith and Walter Fitzsimmons, the three card game companions, had previously been regarded with less importance because of the impression that the fatal blow was such that it would have had to be delivered a very short time before Livers was found in convulsions.

Dr. Charles Bagley, of Baltimore, brain specialist, who performed an operation on Livers Friday morning, conducted an autopsy here yesterday morning with one of his assistants and five local surgeons. As a result, local authorities announced today that all of those at the autopsy agreed with Dr. Bagley that the fracture was such that it would have permitted Livers to maintain his self-control for several hours, as his companions had testified he did.

Authorities previously had doubted whether Livers would have been able to walk after the injury. The experts opinion, Prosecuting Attorney H. E. Hannis said today, justified the State in viewing more seriously the row in the hotel although investigators will continue to give due consideration to every angle.

The coroner's jury will resume its sitting tomorrow to hear the report of the surgeon, and at least the three men who were in the game with Livers.

Wise, central figure in the case, just now was expected to return late tonight to appear for questioning when asked.

BIG SWEEP HANGS ON TO WIN BOWIE PURSE BY HEAD

Lieutenant II Second in Feature

Gamble Fails Badly, Finishing Last in Mile and 70 Yds.

Comet Sets Record in Mile and Eighth of Fifth Race.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 21.—Big Sweep, racing for J. W. Lewis, was winner of the Clifton Forge purse at Bowie this afternoon after a grueling drive with Mrs. R. E. Fott's Lieutenant II. Dr. J. Fred Adams' J. Fred A. was along with best of C. Hall's Mat. Evans for the short end of the prize. This was a test of a mile and 70 yards, and was the best offering of the Southern Maryland Association.

The day was just a bit dreary and there was some sprinkles of cold rain during the afternoon, but a crowd of goodly proportions was out and there was a deal of enthusiasm in the running off of the program.

In this feature number the real surprise of the running was the unaccountably bad performance of William Ziegler Jr.'s Gamble. This mare, on all she had shown, seemed to have a bit the best of it in the weight arrangement, but she refused to extend herself at any stage of the running and never reached a contending position to finish a bad last. Garner, who had the mount, appeared to give his best efforts throughout, but it was to no purpose and the blame seemed to be purely on the mare.

Gamble a tually broke in front, but, as was to be expected, she was outstripped away from the barrier, and it was Big Sweep and Nat Evans that took up the packmaking when the first turn was reached, with Lieutenant II right at their heels, and J. Fred A. was last of them all.

Through the back stretch Big Sweep continued to show the way, and Nat Evans was doing his best to race at the heels of the leader, while Lieutenant II, in third place, was three lengths before Gamble, which was pinning her ears and racing sourly. After passing the half-mile ground, Gamble was kept by the whip, but she would not respond, and it was apparent then that she was not to catch the leaders. Bounding out the back stretch, Big Sweep stole away to a lead of a couple of lengths, and there Lieutenant II drew up on Nat Evans, with the tiring Nat Evans in the last furlong to take third.

After the running the stewards questioned Garner, and his explanation was perfectly satisfactory when he said that he had done his best with Gamble all the way. That was apparent to any one who watched the running of the race intelligently.

There were thirteen starters to vie for honors in the 6 furlongs of the first event. Millson, with several recent good races to his credit, carried the silks of C. A. Mills to victory, scoring in easy fashion by a margin of two lengths from Alan's Bay, who was coupled in the waging with Broom Whisk.

Third part of the spoils went to Bigot, of the R. T. Wilson stable. The Audley farm supplied the favored one for the number in Stage Struck, but poor handling on the part of her rider, F. Mann, was responsible for her defeat as he took her up at the break and

SUCCESS OF G. U. TEAM TRACED TO POWERFUL LINE

Forward Wall Yields Only One Goal

Coach Little Develops Typical Bulwark From Material.

Grigsby, Saur and Carroll Distinguish Selves by Play.

By ORNEL MITCHELL.

THE power of a team lies in its line, is a traditional axiom of the gridiron—a truth which is strikingly convincing when one analyzes the success of the Georgetown University football team during the season just closed.

The success of the Hilltoppers can be traced directly to the all-round effectiveness, the power and drive of its forward wall. Drilled along the principles of fast, low charging, the line in general has consistently opened the gaps in its opponents' defense, through which the ball carrier has romped for appreciable gains amid the applause of the stands. Often (and Georgetown's most respected foes were no exceptions) have the Georgetown forwards, either by sifting through their rivals or coming out of the line as interferences, so effectively cleared the path of the runner that advances of the ball, ranging from 20 to 30 yards, have not been infrequent.

The season's record of the Hilltoppers, who rank as the highest-scoring machine in the East, with a total of 377 points to only 21 for their opponents, tells the story of Georgetown's sterling front line of defense.

Syracuse defeated Georgetown, 19 to 6, in the latter's only loss, but only one touchdown was scored through the Hilltoppers' line, and then it took three plunges to gain a necessary 5 yards. The other scores were the results of brilliant passes.

The loss of Connaughton, McGrath and Waite of last year's magnificent line, left great gaps in the forward wall, and presented a big task for Coach Lou Little and Line Coach John De Grossa, but by dint of persistent work and perseverance, and a willingness and application on the part of the players, this year's line has proved a typical "Lou Little" product.

While individual brilliancy has been no essential factor in the play of the line, the performances of certain players have been so outstanding as to attract attention above the rest. Capt. Claude Grigsby, center, "Dud" Saur, tackle, and Carroll, guard, suffer none by comparison with the best players in the country.

Prominent among the newcomers that have made the team have been Jim Mooney, Sam Cordovano and Kenneth Provincial, all sophomores, and John Tomasi, who still has another year to play football.

Georgetown loses Grigsby and Saur of the line, and McCabe, McLean, O'Sullivan and Nork of the back field, but Coach Little with much promising material from the freshman ranks still has the nucleus for another strong eleven.

Prospects for a post-season game have practically vanished.

BIG SWEEP CAPTURES BOWIE FEATURE RACE

A surprise came out of the 54-furlong dash that occupied the second position on the card which was fashioned for the cheaper grade of sprinters, although there were many of the contestants that raced for considerable money of an entered price during the summer months than they were entered for in this particular number.

The winner came from unexpected sources when Joan Grier grouped in the field waging with three others, was the one to earn the main share of the purse when she came from well back to finish going strong when the leaders were weakening, and took command inside the final furlong to win by half a length. San Carlos raced into second place just a head to the good of Son Ami.

The Vanity purse was the offering that supplied the entertainment for the third race of the afternoon and in this the better grade of juvenile fillies contested and Turkey's Neck was the one that was most in demand by the players, but she went down to defeat after a bitter struggle when she was beaten out a neck in a stirring stretch drive with H. W. Maxwell's consistent Loveken, while four lengths back of the latter came Miss Maryland to break into the money division.

There were twelve starters to contest the issue and all of the contestants with the exception of Lass O'Gowrie and Lady Durba were able to challenge for the main share of the purse, during the early stages of the 54-furlong dash.

The sixth race of the matinee brought forth fifteen platers of rather good grade to compete over the 1 mile and 70 yard course, and the talent-rated racer Scot emerged victorious in a stout drive to reach the end of the journey just a head to the good of the journey outsider, Golden Volt, while third money was awarded to Drawing Board, being just a length and one-half to the fore of Jenny Dean, while the ill-fated Maxwell raced into fifth place after meeting with interference at the barrier and again when he attempted to move to a position rounding the first turn.

ARRESTED HOLLOUP MEN CALLED DOCTOR KILLERS

Mrs. Lillendahl's Detective Believes Pair Slew Her Aged Husband.

GUN CLEW INVESTIGATED

Special to The Washington Post.

Mays Landing, N. J., Nov. 21.—The long-awaited "break" in the Dr. A. William Lillendahl murder case, for which Mrs. Margaret Thompson Lillendahl, 42-year-old widow of the slain 72-year-old physician and her supposed admirer, Willets H. Beach, are in jail here awaiting trial next Monday, came this afternoon when two negro highwaymen, arrested at Jenkintown, Pa., were named as suspects in the case.

The two suspects, both of whom gave Atlantic City addresses, are Alphonso Anderson and Robert Higgins. They were arrested yesterday following a robbery in which they are said to have held up two automobiles at the point of a gun.

John J. Gregory, private detective employed by Mrs. Lillendahl and who was retained in a similar capacity by Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall during the Hall-Mills murder investigation and trial at Somerville a year ago, spent all day today questioning the pair and later announced he was confident they knew something about the murder of the aged narcotic expert.

"I showed them photographs of Dr. and Mrs. Lillendahl and Willets Beach," Gregory told a reporter this afternoon, "and one of them pointed to Mrs. Lillendahl and said, 'That's the woman who was arrested for the murder of the doctor, ain't it?' But when I asked him if he had ever seen her he shut up. I am satisfied, however, that they answer the description given me by Mrs. Lillendahl, and I'll take them to Mays Landing tomorrow or the next day for her to identify," Gregory said.

A gun found on one of them is also to be taken by Gregory, he said, for examination to determine whether it was the weapon from which the three bullets were fired into the head and neck of the doctor.

COMPANY SPEEDS UP BLAST REPAIR WORK

Injured in the Hospitals Told Not to Worry Over Bill Payments.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Machinery was set in motion today by the Equitable Gas Co. to carry out its program for rehabilitation of the Manchester district, wrecked by the gas tank explosion a week ago.

While workmen began the task of restoring approximately 800 homes, wrecked or damaged by the blast, claims for personal injuries or property damage were received. Broken windows in 80 homes were replaced. Repairs to other dwellings will be made as quickly as possible.

"Carrying out the details of immediate relief of the sufferers has entailed an enormous task upon our organization," said A. W. Robertson, president of the company. "It is our object that those in the hospitals shall be put at ease as to the payment of immediate bills and that they will be looked after in a systematic manner. We want the home owner and tenant, whose property was damaged, to know that indemnification will be made promptly."

GIRL'S GLOVE NEAR BODY OF SLAIN MAN

Pistol Shot Heard in Night, Say Neighbors; Woman's Tracks Found.

Wrightsville, Ga., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—With a bullet wound through his heart, Fred Daley, 36, was found dead at midnight Sunday in front of his home here. The body was lying near the rear of his automobile which was locked. A woman's glove was found near the body and a woman's tracks leading from the home where Daley boarded are said to have been traced a considerable distance.

Neighbors reported to Coroner L. R. Clayton that they heard a pistol shot late in the night, but made no investigation. One said he met a woman coming in the direction of the Daley automobile about the time the shot was heard. Daley was connected with the Wrightsville Hardware Co. and was unmarried. He was the son of the late Judge A. P. Daley, former president of the Wrightsville & Tenille Railroad.

German Envoy to U. S. Felicitated by King

Rome, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—King Victor Emanuel received Dr. Friedrich Wilhelm von Prentz, German ambassador, at the Quirinal Palace this morning. The king expressed his regret that so able a diplomat was leaving Rome and congratulated him on his Washington appointment as a merited step upward in his career. He expressed the belief that in his new post the ambassador, who served as counselor of the embassy at Rome, would find new laurels.

Chinese Soldiers Kill Catholic Missionary

Tientsin, China, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Father Hermengilde, German Catholic missionary in northern Shansi, has been murdered by Shansi province soldiers, the Belgian mission at Tientsin learned today.

Father Hermengilde was returning to his mission when soldiers accosted him. They tried to strip his clothing from him. He demanded that he be taken before their officers. The soldiers pretended to consent and then shot him to death.

The soldiers later sacked the Koorh-in mission.

Tariff Bars Raised To Curb Machinery

CONTRACTORS START EXCAVATING ON SITE OF REVENUE OFFICE

Steam Shovel Breaks Ground for U. S. Building Program on Mall Tract.

COMMERCE DEPARTMENT INCLUDED IN CONTRACT

Foundation Work for Both Will Probably Begin Next Spring.

A huge steam shovel sank its teeth into the ground near the corner of Eleventh and C streets northwest yesterday morning, beginning the work of transforming what once was Washington's tenderloin into what eventually will be the most magnificent panorama of public buildings, gardens and parkways in the world.

The block behind the Postoffice building, in which the excavating started yesterday, will be the site of the new Internal Revenue building. This block will not constitute the entire site, however, for when it is completed, the building and its grounds will occupy all the area bounded by Tenth and Twelfth streets and B and C streets.

The Warren F. Brenizer Co., of this city, which is doing the excavating, will start soon to excavate on the site of the new Commerce Department building, just west of the District building. The excavating on both these sites must be completed in 90 days. After that a contract will be awarded for excavating the site of the new Agriculture Department building, the largest of the lot.

The work of laying the foundations of the Internal Revenue building and the Commerce Department building probably will begin in the spring, it was said yesterday at the office of the supervising architect of the Treasury. Bids for this work will be asked after the excavating is well under way or completed.

The inauguration of the excavating work yesterday was without ceremony. The steam shovel had been moved into the place the day before, and everything was in readiness when the engineers and the workmen appeared at 7 o'clock yesterday morning.

At 7:30 o'clock the steam shovel bit into the earth, and one of the most ambitious building programs in the history of the United States Government was under way.

The dirt that is being excavated is being taken in trucks to a dump near the old Arlington Horse show grounds.

Oil Company Sued By City for $14,096

The District government, through Assistant Corporation Counsel Francis H. Stephens, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court against the Republic Oil Co. to recover $14,096 and interest, which is alleged to be due as a tax on gasoline under the act of April 23, 1924.

This sum had been accumulating since last April, according to the declaration.

Chamber Referendum Committee Is Named

M. A. Leese, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce yesterday announced the appointment of a special committee to consider referendum No. 51, of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce dealing with Mississippi flood control.

The committee is Thomas P. Littlepage, chairman; Walter C. Balderson, Morris O. Chance, Ernest E. Herrell and A. Lettich Sinclair. It is expected the committee will meet within the next few days and will formulate a report to be submitted at the next meeting of the chamber, the first Tuesday in December.

G.W.U. Alumni Called To Football Banquet

A call has been issued to 4,000 local alumni of George Washington University to attend the football banquet at the Lafayette Hotel December 1 at 7 o'clock. The dinner will be given under the auspices of the Alumni Association in honor of the football squad.

Various officials of the university will speak at the dinner which will be attended by the entire football team. Lewis Moneyway is chairman of the dinner committee. The dinner will mark the end of the university's football season.

$10,000 Asked in Auto Collision.

The Washington Motor Coach Co., 212 Thirtieth street northwest, was sued yesterday in Circuit Court by Katherine A. E. Thomas, 3540 Thirtieth street northwest, for $10,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. Through Attorney Leiby & Sullivan the plaintiffs say that on August 17 while en route to Washington from Annapolis on the defendant's bus, it collided with an automobile on the Defense highway and turned partly over.

W. F. Scott to Lecture on India.

William Rufus Scott, former Washington newspaperman, will lecture at the New Willard Hotel tonight on "Mother India." Scott recently returned from a study of conditions in Asia. In his lecture he will discuss the problems of the United States in the Philippines, China and elsewhere in Asia.

Buhlig to Give Recital.

Richard Buhlig, pianist, will give a recital at the Central Community Center Friday afternoon for students of instrumental music. Such students may obtain tickets from the community center department upon presentation of the proper credentials.

300 Invited to Inspect Power Plant Addition

The District Commissioners, prominent officials of civic organizations, engineers and members of public utility service companies of nearby Maryland and Virginia are included in the 300 persons invited to a luncheon and inspection of the new addition to the Benning power plant at 12:30 o'clock today by the directors and officers of the Potomac Electric Power Co.

The new addition is a 30,000-kilowatt unit, erected at a cost of $35,000,000 to care for the future growth and electrical supply of the Capital. Special buses will leave the District Building at noon to transport the guests to the plant, at Thirty-fourth street and Benning road northeast.

1928 Truck Licenses Are Now Available

Automobile truck licenses for 1928 were made available at the District Building for the first time yesterday, but scarcely a score of owners applied for the tags. Licenses for pleasure cars will not be available until December 1.

Wade H. Coombs, District superintendent of licenses, was disappointed at the small number who applied for the tags yesterday. He wishes to dispose of truck licenses before the rush which accompanies distribution of pleasure car tags.

YOUTH, VAINLY SEEKING WIFE, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Joseph Rickett Fires Shot Into Breast as He Gazes on Woman's Picture.

CONDITION HELD CRITICAL

Gazing at a picture of the wife from whom he had been estranged for a year, Joseph Rickett, 23 years old, son of Lawrence R. Rickett, of Rockville, shot himself in the left breast yesterday morning, while in the home of his parents-in-law, in Urbana, Md.

The young husband is in a critical condition at the Frederick City Hospital. Surgeons found that the bullet from a .38 calibre revolver, had pierced his left lung, and they said his condition was critical.

About two years ago Rickett married Cecelia Knott, now about 20 years old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Knott, of Urbana. For about a year the young couple lived happily together, and had one child. A year ago a rift appeared in their happiness, and the young Mrs. Rickett returned to the home of her parents to live. Frequent efforts were made by the husband to have his wife return to him. All of them were futile.

Yesterday morning Rickett appeared at the Knott home and asked to see his wife. He was told that she was not at home. On the table in the parlor was a picture of Mrs. Rickett holding her infant child. For about five minutes the young husband and father stood looking at the picture. Then, without a word, he drew from his pocket a heavy revolver, placed it against his chest, and pulled the trigger.

The Knotts, who stood by while the youth shot himself, hastily hailed a passing motorist, and took Rickett to the Frederick Hospital. Rickett refused to discuss the shooting, or the motives which prompted it, telling the surgeons only that "I shot myself."

CANADIAN EXECUTIVE TO REACH CITY TODAY

Prime Minister Mackenzie-King to Be Coolidge's
Luncheon Guest.

William L. Mackenzie-King, prime minister of Canada, is scheduled to arrive in Washington at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. He will be met by Vincent Massey, the Canadian Minister, and the staff of the Canadian Legation.

The Canadian leader, it was said yesterday, comes here simply to see the new Canadian Legation and to promote good will. He will have luncheon with President Coolidge at the White House tomorrow.

This evening Mr. King will be the guest at dinner of Secretary of State and Mrs. Kellogg. Tomorrow night he will be the dinner guest of Minister Massey, and Thursday evening he will be the guest at a dinner in the British Embassy. Thursday afternoon he will be the guest at a tea at the Canadian Legation.

UNION MEN SUPPORT BUY-AT-HOME DRIVE

85,000 Workers Urged to Shop in Capital by Labor Resolution.

Eighty-five thousand union workers in this city were urged to spend their earnings with Washington merchants and, wherever possible, give preference to products made in this city under union conditions at a resolution adopted by the Washington Central Labor Union at Musicians Hall, 1008 E street northwest, last night.

The campaign of the Washington Chamber of Commerce to request merchants, hotels, banks and all other business to give preference to Washington firms, was endorsed.

George E. King, delegate from the Bakery Salesmen's Local Union No. 3, who introduced the resolution, declared that when the people of this city purchase goods made in other cities in preference to goods made here they not only take money out of circulation here but also deprive local wage earners of employment.

OVER HERE—OVER THERE—

AS THE BRITISH ARMY WAS WAGING A DEATH STRUGGLE AGAINST THE GERMANS IN FLANDERS DURING APRIL 1918, THE BRITISH NAVY SUPPORTED BY THE FRENCH WAS PREPARING TO ENACT ONE OF THE MOST THRILLING NAVAL OPERATIONS OF THE WAR—THE CLOSING OF THE BRUGES CANAL.

THE BELGIAN PORTS OF ZEEBRUGGE AND OSTEND, 70 MILES ACROSS THE CHANNEL FROM ENGLAND, HAD BEEN CAPTURED BY THE GERMANS IN 1914 DURING THEIR DRIVE ON BELGIUM.

ANTWERP SHIPBUILDING PLANTS, ONCE IN POSSESSION OF GERMANY, WERE IMMEDIATELY USED TO BUILD GERMAN SUBMARINES AND SMALL WAR CRAFT, WHICH PASSED DOWN THE CANAL, THROUGH ZEEBRUGGE, THEN TO THE NORTH SEA.

THE CANAL MOUTH OF ZEEBRUGGE WAS PROTECTED BY A CRESCENT SHAPED MOLE, OR SEA WALL, 30 FEET HIGH, ENCLOSING THE HARBOR. IT WAS FROM THIS BASE THAT THE ENEMY HAD BEEN CARRYING ON HIS UNRESTRICTED SUBMARINE WARFARE.

IT WAS TO DESTROY THIS SUBMARINE BASE AND TO BLOCK UP THE BRUGES CANAL THAT THE BRITISH NAVAL AUTHORITIES CAREFULLY LAID THEIR PLANS FOR AN ATTACK ON ONE OF THE STRONGEST GERMAN POSITIONS.

Car Offered as Gift Missing; Owner Fined

Judge Gus A. Schuldt, of Police Court, is a disciple of Solomon. Yesterday Sidney Glaser, of 4853 Wisconsin avenue northwest, was arrested by Police Officer Edward C. Spaulding, of the Twelfth Precinct for speeding in excess of 45 miles an hour.

When taken to court Glaser told Judge Schuldt his automobile, a small car of a well-known make, could not go that fast. "If my car can do 45 miles an hour I'll give it to the officer," Glaser told the judge. The judge took him at his word and ordered the car's speed tested. When Glaser and Spaulding left the court Glaser couldn't find his car, he said. When brought back before Judge Schuldt he was fined $10.

Baptists Conducting Revival Out of Doors

A church and open-air evangelistic campaign, under auspices of the National Baptist Memorial Church, Sixteenth street and Columbia road northwest, is being conducted this week by the "singing evangelists," Lawrence B. Greenwood and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton A. Plummer, of Augusta, Me.

The open-air services are to be held daily, except Thursday and Saturday, from 12:30 until 1 o'clock, at Ninth and K streets northwest, and from 7:15 in the evenings until 7:45 o'clock at Fourteenth and Kenyon streets northwest. The church services will be held each night at 8 o'clock in the memorial church.

The evangelistic troupe is traveling south in an automobile, which a year ago was a run-running car but now is known as "The Gospel Patrol."

Three Persons Hurt When Autos Crash

Three persons suffered cuts and bruises yesterday when the automobile driven by Mary R. Mahoney, 2540 Massachusetts avenue, and James M. Mills, 1228 Wisconsin avenue northwest, collided at Twenty-first street and Virginia avenue.

They are William P. Lampert, 60 years old, 1222 Potomac avenue northwest, and Mrs. Rena Mills, 21, 1228 Wisconsin avenue northwest, who were passengers in the Mills car, and Mrs. Mahoney. They were taken to Emergency Hospital.

Oldest British Toiler Dies in Boyhood Home

West Brighton, England, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—When John Hughes, at the age of 9 years, started out to seek work his father's advice was: "Stick to it, my boy."

And Hughes did stick—stuck until he was Britain's oldest workman in point of service with one firm. He died in the house which sheltered him in his boyhood.

Everybody at George Slater's sprink works, chief to office boy, attended the funeral and the plant was closed all day as a tribute to the kindly old man who had been with Slater's—errand boy to manager of the works—just as his father advised some 82 years ago.

STORM SUFFERERS AWAIT ASSISTANCE OF RED CROSS

National Funds Will Have to Be Drawn On as Contributions Are Only $101.

DAMAGE PUT AT $119,000

The people of Washington contributed $101 to the District Chapter of the American Red Cross to aid in the rehabilitation of the city's tornado sufferers whose property damage amounted approximately to $119,000.

The amount received by the local chapter, the Red Cross, in response to its appeals for funds, has made it necessary to seek elsewhere for funds, and Maj. Gen. George Barnett, chairman of the local chapter, is planning to ask the national body to aid in the reconstruction program already under way.

It is not certain how much the national organization will be asked to contribute from its own emergency fund but this will be determined when a final check-up on needs was made by Red Cross workers who are canvassing the devastated area for damage done.

When all reports are in, Gen. Barnett will appoint a committee on awards to sift them and determine families in need of assistance in the reconstruction of their homes. Gen. Barnett hopes to see the reconstruction work well under way by the end of this week.

Robert E. Bondy, manager of the Eastern district of the National Red Cross, conferred with officials of the local chapter yesterday. It is understood the national body was ready to aid the local chapter in its program of reconstruction by drawing on its emergency fund.

Local Red Cross workers have volunteered the financial aid of the chapter to many homes whose homes were damaged by the storm, but since the tornado struck, the tornado have declined to accept outside aid. These already have done much toward reconstructing their homes. There are others, however, who have not been so fortunate and are waiting for Red Cross funds to rehabilitate their homes.

It is believed the actual number of persons whose homes will be repaired with Red Cross funds will be comparatively small. Since the tornado struck, these persons have been placed in temporary homes by Red Cross workers.

REJECTION OF CHAIN BRIDGE BIDS LIKELY

Day Laborers Expected to Do Work Under Direction of District.

All bids, recently opened, for reconstruction of the falling abutment at the Virginia end of Chain Bridge, probably will be rejected by the Commissioners. The prospect now is that the work will be done by day labor under direction of District engineers.

The Commissioners have not yet acted on the bids, but the lowest of them have been declared to be in excess of the sum available for the work. An item has been included in the supplemental estimates now before the Bureau of the Budget to cover expense of the project. It is said day labor is favored because the District engineers may want to change their plan when the 100-year old wall is taken down, and for the further reason that there has arisen differences of opinion as to the method by which the first span of the bridge is to be supported while the abutment is replaced.

If the Commissioners are to depend on the supplemental estimate for funds they will have to delay its initiation until Congress can act on the estimate. It is the intention, however, to have the bridge repaired, if possible before summer.

Woman Hurt in Auto Crash.

Mrs. Anna Crane, 38 years old, 1647 Thirtieth street northwest, was cut by flying glass yesterday when the automobile in which she was a passenger collided with that of Dr. Edward C. OLD BILL TO FORCE TRACTOR MERGER VALID, BRIDE RULES

Publication of Opinion Suppressed Several Weeks by Chairman Childress.

PUBLICITY IS NO HELP TO CAUSE, HE ASSERTS

Recent Ruling on Hacker Indemnity Also Not Made Public.

It was revealed yesterday that Corporation Counsel W. W. Bridge several weeks ago submitted to the Public Utilities Commission an opinion that the "compulsory" traction merger bill introduced at the instance of the former commission before the last Congress was valid legislation.

The opinion was suppressed from publication by John W. Childress, chairman of the commission, on the ground that "it would not do the merger cause any good to make it public at this time."

"I am not in favor of the bill," said Childress yesterday. "Its most effective provision as I see it is the threat to increase the street car companies' tax on gross revenue from 4 to 6 percent if they do not assent. This penalty would do no good in my opinion. If the companies' taxes were increased they would only be charged to operating expense and the public would have to pay the increased tax in fares."

Rewards Were Promised.

In addition to the penalty for not merging the bill contained certain promised rewards if the car lines should merge. These included relieving them of the expense of crossing policemen and maintenance of pavement between tracks.

It had been supposed that if the companies did not offer voluntarily to merge that the bill would be reintroduced in an effort to induce them to consolidate. Childress and Col. Harrison Brand, Jr., had expressed doubt as to the validity of the bill. Bridge's opinion tended to resolve that doubt.

In it he said the only provision of the bill open to attack was the proposed tax penalty, and if the commission as desired it could eliminate that feature from the bill before offering it for reintroduction.

Opinion Not Made Public.

Childress also failed to make public an opinion he did not offer voluntarily a few days ago concerning the power of the commission to force public hackers to furnish indemnity, by means of liability insurance or otherwise, to protect their passengers.

Bridge had held in a former opinion that such taxicab operators as came under the definition of common carriers could be required by the Utilities Commission to indemnify passengers.

In the more recent communication he held that neither the utilities body nor the District Commissioners had the authority to compel livery car operators to provide indemnity because they carried on a private business, under recent court decisions.

"There is no use of our regulating part of the public vehicles if we can't regulate all of them," said Childress. "I think we will have to go to Congress for legislation specifically authorizing us to cause all vehicles carrying passengers for hire to provide their passengers from injury or other damage while in the case."

Great Falls Power Plan Debate Tonight

Arguments for and against the Great Falls power project will be heard tonight at 8 o'clock at the meeting of the Kalorama and Mount Pleasant Citizens Associations in All Souls Church. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

U. S. Grant, president of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, will oppose the project. Col. Charles Keller, engineer for the Potomac Electric Power Co., will support the project. The meeting will be held in the former District Commissioners' office.

Two Get Reserve Commissions.

Howard Moses Sparrow, 26 P street northeast, has been commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry, reserve, and Thomas Jennings Bailey, 2231 Bancroft place, a second lieutenant, field artillery, reserve. James H. Hines, 1000 E street northwest, and Carlyle Van Buren Funk, 3816 Fourth street northwest, also have been promoted to first lieutenants, field artillery, reserve.

Taxman Suit Is Dismissed.

Rozell D. Pearson, 2025 P street northwest, father of the late Miss Mild Pearson and administrator of her estate, who sued the Black & White Taxi Co. for $10,000 damages for her death, dismissed his suit in Circuit Court yesterday through his counsel Leonard A. Block. Pearson had charged that his daughter had been struck by a taxicab on June 19, 1926 at Fifth and Elm streets northwest.

Summer Chief for Year.
